Mass Flight From Tokyo Ends
At Washington; One Plane Delayed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—Seven B-29 Superfortresses landed at nearby Andrews Field, Md., at 11:29 A. M. (EST) today completing a one-stop mass flight from Tokyo in 33 hours and 28 minutes to break the record by one hour and two minutes.

The previous record was 34 hours and 30 minutes.

An eight Superfort, forced to land at Adak for repairs, was trailing the seven four-engine giants and was expected in Washington later today.

THE FLIGHT, made as part of observance of the Army Air Forces' 40th anniversary, skimmed over the tip of the Washington monument at exactly 11 o'clock a few minutes before landing.

The Tokyo-Washington bombers were exactly 32 hours and 59 minutes out of the Japanese capital as they skimmed low over Washington.

Seconds later, a squadron of jet-propelled Lockheed P-80 Shooting Stars screamed past the Boeing-built bomber type which helped bomb the Japanese empire into submission.

By GEN. GEORGE C. KENNEY
WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—Airpower has come a long way since Gen. Billy Mitchell, architect of the air victory of World War II, was court-martialed and practically forced to resign from the service for his determined effort to awaken a slumbering nation to the terrible potential of warfare in the sky.

Last week, congress vindicated his name and his objectives when they approved unification of the armed services and established a separate air department as a co-equal partner in the defense of this country.

Today, perhaps more than ever before, the United States is conscious of its responsibilities—and its vulnerability—in the air age.

TECHNICAL sciences of airpower have caught up with the strategic pattern laid down by Billy Mitchell 20 years ago.

EVIDENCE LINKS HIROHITO WITH HIGH WAR GUILT

TOKYO, Aug. 1—Evidence indicating emperor Hirohito shared directly in the war guilt was shown to Australian external affairs minister Herbert V. Evatt in Tokyo today by a high official of the international military tribunal.

The official called Evatt's attention to an entry in the diary of Marquis Koichi Kido. This item stated the emperor had personally ordered the launching of the Pacific War after listening to the Japanese navy's objections to the enterprise.

Kido, formerly lord keeper of the privy seal, was Hirohito's closest advisor.

Along with "Pearl Harbor Premier" Hideki Tojo and 23 others, the marquis presently is on trial before the international far east tribunal charged with major war crimes.

In his diary, Kido wrote he had been told by Prince Takamatsu, the emperor's brother, that Hirohito had conferred with Tojo and two high navy officers Nov. 30, 1941, a week before the Pearl Harbor attack.

Expenses included construction of 110-foot tower for the photographer, 30 miles of small rope necessary to transfer diagram from blueprint to ground, 18 kegs of 16-penny nails to tack rope and an additional 20,000 nails to spot each man in design.

Founding Of Air Force Marked Around World

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—Flight of B-29 Superfortresses to Washington from Japan today highlighted the nation's observance of Air Force Day.

Throughout the world observances are scheduled today to commemorate the 40th anniversary of the founding of the U. S. Air Corps.

OVER THE MIDWEST, more than 100 Superforts will participate in a spectacular display of the nation's aerial might.

On the eastern seaboard, big Lincoln bombers of Britain's royal air force—in the U. S. on a goodwill flight—will spearhead armadas of all type aircraft which will maneuver over 16 major cities.

New York City will be the focal point of the east coast observance.

In the national capital, President Truman's brand-new personal airplane, the "Independence" was on public exhibition at Bolling field. The chief executive's huge flying office returned Thursday from South America.

On the Pacific coast, both Los Angeles and San Francisco, as well as numerous coastal cities, will see army bombers and fighters in aerial action.

THE MIDWEST aerial program is the largest set for the air arm's birthday "party."

Chicago, Detroit, Toledo, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Kansas City will all be "visited" by the armada which is under the command of Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey.

A special Superfortress salute will be given Milwaukee, birthplace of Gen. William "Billy" Mitchell, first great American airpower advocate.

Abroad, the largest program ever scheduled by peacetime American airpower will soar over Tokyo and will be reviewed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

At Weisbaden, Germany, Hickam Field, T. H., and Clark field, in the Philippines, similar demonstrations are planned.

FIRE DESTROYS LOCALITE'S CAR ON 104 EARLY FRIDAY

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the auto of Homer Lowery, Circleville, at 4:45 a. m. Friday on State Route 104 in Scioto township. Firemen called to the scene from Circleville were unable to save the car. Amount of the loss was undetermined.

At 11:05 p. m. Thursday firemen extinguished a blaze in a taxicab on West Main street, and at 7:45 p. m. Thursday a fire in an auto parked near the Pickaway county courthouse resulted in the summoning of firemen. The loss was reported small in each instance. Origin of the fires was undetermined.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1—Joseph Bortnyak, 27-year-old confessed kidnaper and strangler of 3 ½-year-old Charles Bradley of Chicago, asked for the electric chair today "so I won't do it again."

Remorsefully, Bortnyak said: "I'd be better off dead. I don't want any doctors examining me. I'll plead guilty. Then they can electrocute me, and I won't mind a bit."

Bortnyak made his statements shortly before a jury of alienists and lawyers was to hear the coroner's inquest into the sadistic kidnap-murder of the Bradley child.

ber of windows were broken by the explosions and rifle fire.

The resumption of anti-British attacks followed last night's rioting in the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv in which British troops killed five Jews and wounded 40 others in obvious retaliation for the underground's hanging of two soldier-hostages.

The two British sergeant victims of Irgun meanwhile were buried with full military honors in the British cemetery at Ramleh.

SIRENS SOUNDED through the capital, warning of possible further anti-British attacks by the Palestine underground—particularly in view of Irgunist warnings of a "blood bath" in reprisal for the execution of three convicted extremists.

The sirens sounded ten minutes before the Jewish community in Tel Aviv was to begin a two-hour "silent period" in honor of the victims of last night's obvious retaliation for the underground's reprisal-hanging of two soldier-hostages.

Official quarters withheld information concerning the bloody rioting which, in effect, constituted a reign of terror over Tel Aviv.

HOWEVER, authoritative quarters said a joint army-civilian police inquiry is to be held into the incident.

Wildly careening armored cars and jeeps laden with infuriated khaki-clad men waged a reign of terror in the all-Jewish city for several hours, beginning soon after the booby-trapped bodies of the hapless sergeant-hostages were found near Nathanya.

A withering fire was poured from the speeding military vehicles, into shops, street crowds and busses.

Apparently the first incident occurred when 12 soldiers in two jeeps drove into the heart of the tension-ridden city and manhandled passersby, a score of whom were hurt. Five were so badly mauled that they had to be hospitalized.

Shortly afterward, further rioting broke out and shots were exchanged with civilian "vigilante" squads. In this melee, seven of the rioters were hurt, and two soldiers were disarmed by numerically-superior Jewish groups. From then on, violence mushroomed.

HITCH-HIKING YOUTH HELD IN JAIL FOR INVESTIGATION

Robert Acker, 16, claiming New York and St. Louis as his home cities was in police custody Friday in Cincinnati and the youth was scheduled to be questioned by an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Acker was nabbed in the downtown district at 5:30 p. m. Thursday by Police Chief William F. McCrady after the youth declared he was a "hitch-hiker". When discrepancies appeared in the story he told concerning his cross-country wanderings Acker was ordered held for investigation. He was lodged overnight in the Pickaway county jail by John Kerns, juvenile court probation officer.

DUTCH ACCEPT U. S. OFFER IN JAVA DISPUTE

ALKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The Netherlands representative announced in the United Nations security council today the Dutch government "gladly" accepts the United States offer of "good offices" in seeking a settlement of the Indonesia conflict.

E. N. Van Kleffens, the Netherlands representative, disclosed at the resumed meeting of the 11-nation body this morning that the United States' offer announced by U. S. Representative Herschel V. Johnson had been received by his government.

Britain's acting delegate Valentine Lawford immediately proposed that the United States offer might provide a practical solution.

Belgium also indicated its support of the United States offer.

U. S. Representative Johnson declared that the main concern of the council is to secure an immediate cessation of the fighting in Indonesia. He proposed an amendment to the Australian resolution calling for an immediate truce which would eliminate any mention of the U. N. charter and therewith shift the legal question of the council's competence to a subsequent date.

would fly to Washington next Wednesday and "not a day sooner."

The multi-millionaire flyer, plane-builder and movie producer, at the same time let fly a verbal haymaker in the general direction of the war investigating committee probing wartime plane contracts.

In a public statement Hughes accused Senator Owen Brewster (R) Maine, of lying in a story that an airplane hostess "didn't dare" to be alone with him in an airplane.

And the wealthy sportsman, in another article copyrighted by the Los Angeles Examiner, told details of the battle between his own Trans-World Airline and Pan American Airways, headed by Juan Trippe, for vital foreign routes.

HUGHES, in fact, unloaded a whole arsenal of verbal fire-works.

He said he was "a little tired of being pushed around and intimidated by Senators Brewster and Ferguson just because they have some very strong powers which are granted all senators, but which were not intended to be misused for the promotion of a three-ring publicity circus."

"I made a firm agreement with Ferguson's committee that I would appear Wednesday, Aug. 6. I expect to have my facts and figures and dates researched and available at that time."

"I refuse to jump through a hoop like a trained seal and fly all night and appear the next morning without any sleep to testify all day on a most important matter."

Hughes declared he would ask the department of justice to investigate Senator Brewster's relationship with Pan-American Airways.

No man today can accurately foresee what speeds will finally be attained; what altitudes will eventually be conquered.

THE ERA of pushbutton warfare lies well over the horizon. When and how we will effect it, what weapons will be employed, are questions which only skilled scientists and research experts can answer.

The danger, however, exists. It will increase as time goes on.

Any future would-be world conqueror cannot allow the production and military might of America to be mobilized and developed if he is to have any chance of gaining global domination. The centers of industry and population in this country will be number one targets should there ever again be world conflict.

Ford charged that the threatened walkout would be "a strike against the government and the laws of the land."

THE YOUTHFUL executive said the Taft-Hartley bill was the principal issue blocking a contract settlement.

However, union spokesmen said another important factor is disagreement on a pension plan.

Ford said the union had rejected a company suggestion of a contract clause under which the firm would not sue the UAW for damages from a wildcat strike.

The paralyzing strike of 7,000 Murray Corp. employees in Detroit and Ecorse, Mich., continued, meanwhile, with no meetings scheduled before Monday. Out for nine days, the Murray workers also seek a contract clause protecting them from liability under the Taft-Hartley act.

It was estimated the Murray strike has idled over 40,000 workers all told.

The U. S. rubber plant in Detroit also remained closed for the ninth day today because of a strike of heavy tire builders. The dispute over work schedules has idled 7,500.

OSU FOOTBALL TICKETS READY, OFFICIAL SAYS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 1.—Ohio State University football fans received some welcome news today when ticket sales director Oscar Thomas announced that "all price tickets" are currently available for four home games. Tickets go on sale to the general public Monday. The priority period for sales to alumni association members and benefactors of the university ended today.

Thomas stated that all price tickets are available for the Missouri, Iowa, Indiana and Northwestern games. He said that a "limited number" of seats, mostly in field boxes or the north end of the stadium, remain unsold for the Illinois and Southern California contests.

The ticket director said season books for sideline seats were sold out as were sideline boxes.

"Through the agreements made at Teheran and Yalta by President Roosevelt and at Potsdam by President Truman, we practically abandoned all of the ideals for which the war was fought."

"We created an impossible situation in which freedom is suppressed throughout large sections of Europe and Asia."

"In Germany our policy has been dominated by the harsh and impractical Morgenthau plan, even though the government for many months pretended to repudiate it. I think now they have repudiated it."

EQUALLY CRITICAL of the present foreign loan plan, Taft continued:

"We have made dollars available to foreign countries in almost unlimited amount, with little restriction of the use to be made of them. We have thus permitted the raising of many domestic prices to our own citizens."

"Certainly we are interested in reasonable loans to enable foreign countries to help themselves, but I believe these loans should be confined to actual goods, machinery and equipment necessary to enable the countries which receive them to restore their own productive activity."

AN ACTUAL count of 1272 Ohio Republican leaders, carefully rehearsed to make a good impression over the 268-station nationwide radio hookup, gave Taft a thunderous 60-second

ovation as he stepped to the microphone after his introduction by Bricker.

Present were 19 Ohio congressmen, the overwhelming GOP majority in the state legislature, the state central and executive committee which called the convention, county leaders, elective state officials, and officers of other Republican organizations. Taft hailed the record of the just-adjourned Republican congress and inferred that the 1948 presidential campaign should be conducted on the basis of its record, and the need for cooperation between the legislative and executive branches of government.

He assailed the president's promise of cooperation as unfulfilled, and declared that "while the presidency remains in Democratic hands, a Republican congress is faced with the job of undoing, step by step, the more serious abuses of the new deal, and in every step it faces a veto by the President."

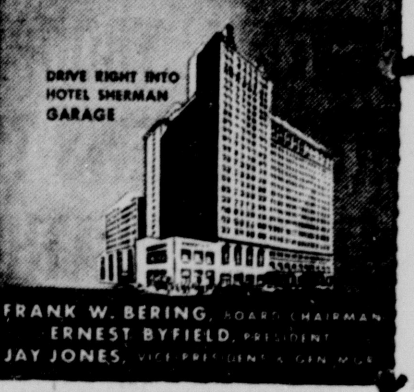

He charged that President Truman "is completely opposed to the principles of the Republican congress" and "in every crisis and in every decision he has shown he is still dominated by the principles of the CIO."

Conservation Official Bares Plans For Fishing And Recreation Facilities

An oral picture of the 440-acre Memorial Lake Park to be built at the headwaters of Hargus Creek in Pickaway county four and one-half miles northeast of Circleville in the "Devil's Backbone" area, was painted by George R. Emmett, of the Ohio division of conservation, at a meeting of the Rotary club held following a noon luncheon Thursday at the Pickaway Arms.

The speaker declared that the Memorial Lake Park will provide an excellent fishing place and will have facilities for picnics and for general relaxation but that motor-boating will be banned, and that while the park will include a shelter house it will not include cabins.

He asserted that most of the large streams in the nation are "so polluted that fish cannot live in them," that fully 80 per cent of America's forests have been virtually destroyed, and that the Ohio water table is getting lower year after year. He added that 27 soil conservation offices in Ohio are giving battle to the great enemy—soil erosion.

Mr. Emmett cited that the state recently bought 200 acres of the "Devil's Backbone" and under option for establishment of the Memorial Lake Park and that there will be 24 such quiet picnic and fishing spots in the state.

BILBO TO BE UNMOLESTED GOP LEADERS INTIMATE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—A leading Republican said today that the GOP leadership has no intention of disturbing the status of Senator-Elect Bilbo (D) Miss., next January.

Bilbo has all the privileges of a senator except the right to vote and to participate in committee actions. He draws his salary and has an office staff.

A high-ranking Republican said that there has been no discussion of further action and predicted that there will be none unless Bilbo himself demands it.

ENGINEER WITH HAND EQUIPMENT FOILS FIREMEN

CHICAGO, Aug. 1—Twenty-five Chicago firemen were cooling off today after indignation, a lot of fruitless exercise and an outdoor temperature of 96.8 sent up their blood pressure.

As Chicago sweltered on the hottest day of the year, the firemen responded to an alarm on the 22nd floor of a loop building. They arrived to find the elevators out of order. All 25 men walked up the 22 floors carrying hose and other equipment.

After the long climb they were greeted by a building engineer who had put out the fire with a hand extinguisher.

DODGERS KNOCK OVER CARDS 2-1 TO TAKE SERIES

League Leaders Have Good Mathematical Chance To Capture Pennant

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—The first of August may be a mighty early date to start eliminating pennant contenders mathematically, but the commanding leads enjoyed by the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers call for this procedure today, a month ahead of time.

For instance, if the Yanks win just about half their remaining games, the second-place Boston Red Sox will have to play .712 ball for the balance of the American League campaign to catch them.

And if the Dodgers get approximately an even break down the National League stretch, the St. Louis Cardinals must play .678 ball to catch up. The Giants, although in a virtual tie with the Cards for second place, have played fewer games and would need to maintain a .667 pace to nip the flying Brooks, who have won 13 straight games.

MANAGER Eddie Dyer of St. Louis knew he had to win the Brooklyn series that ended yesterday, but instead of winning it, the Cards lost all three games and now trail the Dodgers by 10 games. The Red Birds overcame a 10-game Brooklyn lead in 1942 but this year it's the Brooks who are hungry.

Pee Wee Reese has been a key man in the Brooklyn spurt. His ninth-inning triple yesterday, his third hit of the game, gave southpaw Vic Lombardi a 2-to-1 decision over Howie Pollet.

JOHNNY MIZE of the Giants hit his 31st homer and Walker Cooper his 24th, both wallpops coming with two men on base, but Grady Hatton duplicated the feat in the eighth inning to give Cincinnati an 8-to-7 win over the New Yorkers.

Mize actually is three games ahead of the home run record of his noted relative, George Herman Ruth. The Giants have played only 91 games, while Babe's No. 31 did not come until the Yankees' 94th game the year he hit 60.

Dutch Leonard, the old knuckle-ball expert of the Phils, held the Chicago Cubs to five hits and blanked them, 3 to 0.

THE LEAD of the idle Yankees in the American League race was increased to 12 full games when the second-place Boston Red Sox lost their third straight game to Cleveland, 5 to 4. Homers by Joe Gordon and Lou Boudreau gave the Indians all their runs.

Philadelphia's improving Athletics, who still have an excellent chance to finish second in the junior circuit, downed the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 2.

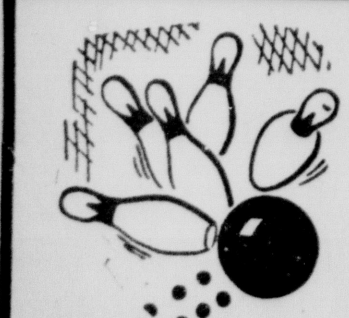

Washington beat the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 1, in a night game. Mickey Haefner, who racked up his third straight win, has given up only two runs in his last three games.

Other teams were idle.

Fesler And Eliot Ready Pigskin Men For Annual Ohio All-Star Grid Battle

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 1—General Jim Robinson is a puzzled gentleman these days.

Jim is general chairman for the second annual high school all-star game Aug. 15 at Canton, and the game's companion feature, the week-long Ohio high school football coaches association clinic beginning Aug. 11.

Now everyone has heard of the all-star game between North and South all-star teams, picked on the basis of press association All-Ohio selections.

What a lot of folks don't realize is that the grid project, gigantic promotion venture that it is, actually ranks as a secondary feature to the clinic for the coaches.

It's the latter event that has Robinson puzzled—not worried, understand, just puzzled.

Success of the game is assured with 13,000 tickets already sold and a remaining 7,000 going like the proverbial hot cakes. The clinic, too, has more than 100 coaches enrolled to date with about as many more expected to get in under the wire.

But this is what stumps Robinson.

"We've attracted coaches from all the surrounding states and quite a few others besides," Jim says plaintively. "We even have a couple of fellows coming down from Canada. But, doggone it, so far we have an unexpectedly light enrollment from right here in Ohio."

Robinson figures the Buckeye coaches are just a bit tardy getting enrolled. Last year's initial clinic and game at Toledo were so outstandingly successful in every way that it seems a cinch the boys will all be back for more.

Last year Frank Leahy of Notre Dame and Paul Bixler of Ohio State were the rival coaches for the all-star game and also the head pedagogues at the coaching school. This year, similar assignments fall to Ray Eliot of Illinois and Wes Fesler, successor to Bixler at Ohio State.

All Eliot's surprising Illinois did last year was to win the Big Nine title then go on to thumping victory in the Rose Bowl. Fesler is just about the most talked about young coach in the business right now; not only is he stepping into a "hot spot" at his old alma mater, but he has some revolutionary ideas such as the 5-4-2 defense he used at Pittsburgh a year ago.

THE RIVAL SQUADS of grid stars set up camp next week. The two 24 man squads will go to it hammer-and-tongs to get in top shape and pick up the legerdemain of the two coaching systems represented in the period of about ten days before the game.

Late reports indicated that two last-minute substitutions would be made in personnel of the north squad, Eliot's team. Robinson said Toledo Waite tackle Elmer Scallish would miss the contest because of an attack of rheumatic fever. He's to be replaced by John Constantino of Canton Timken.

Emery Cizma, brilliant back on Cleveland Cathedral Latin's unbeaten team, is also not expected for the Canton game. His alternate is fleet Dick Raebel of Robinson's own Canton Lehman eleven.

REDS HOSTS TO GROVE CITY NINE

Rubber Game Of SCO Series Scheduled For 2 P. M. Sunday In Ashville

Plenty of action is expected Sunday afternoon at Ashville Community park when the Reds and Grove City clash in a South Central Ohio Baseball league contest.

Sunday's game, which starts at 2:30 p. m., is the rubber game between the two teams. Ashville started the season by trouncing Grove City, then took a shellacking when visiting Grove City.

The visitors will be out to show that win was no fluke while the Reds will be just as determined to show that their leadership of the SCO has been earned.

Manager Carl Gulick plans to start fast-baller Mark Wylie, while Grove City probably will use Chuck Graves, or another righthander with plenty of steam. Fans should see some of the fastest throwing of the season when these two teams collide.

In other games Sunday, as the remaining members of the league struggle to get close to the Reds, Lancaster entertains Chillicothe; Jamestown goes to Jeffersonville and Washington C. H. plays at Greenfield.

PARK RANGERS BEAT ALL STARS

Container Wins By Forfeit From Blue Ribbon Then Loses To Pickup 9

Container Corporation advanced to the second round of the winners' bracket of the Night Softball League tournament Thursday night as the result of a forfeit win over Blue Ribbon.

President Ed Amey declared the game forfeited when Blue Ribbon failed to put a complete team on the Ted Lewis park field at the expiration of the grace period allowed.

A pickup team then was organized and defeated Container 7-6. P. T. Smith and Redman formed the winning battery while Ramey and Marshall worked for Container. Smith struck out five of the first six men to face him.

IN THE preliminary contest Park Rangers defeated All Stars in a game between teams from the Summer recreation program at the park. Rangers, champions of the playground league, won 7-2 from a team chosen from other entries in the league.

Roger Bennington was the winning pitcher. Jerry Pritchard was his catcher. Ted Davis, Curt Bradley and Ted Mogan pitched for the All Stars with Jerry Rooney catching.

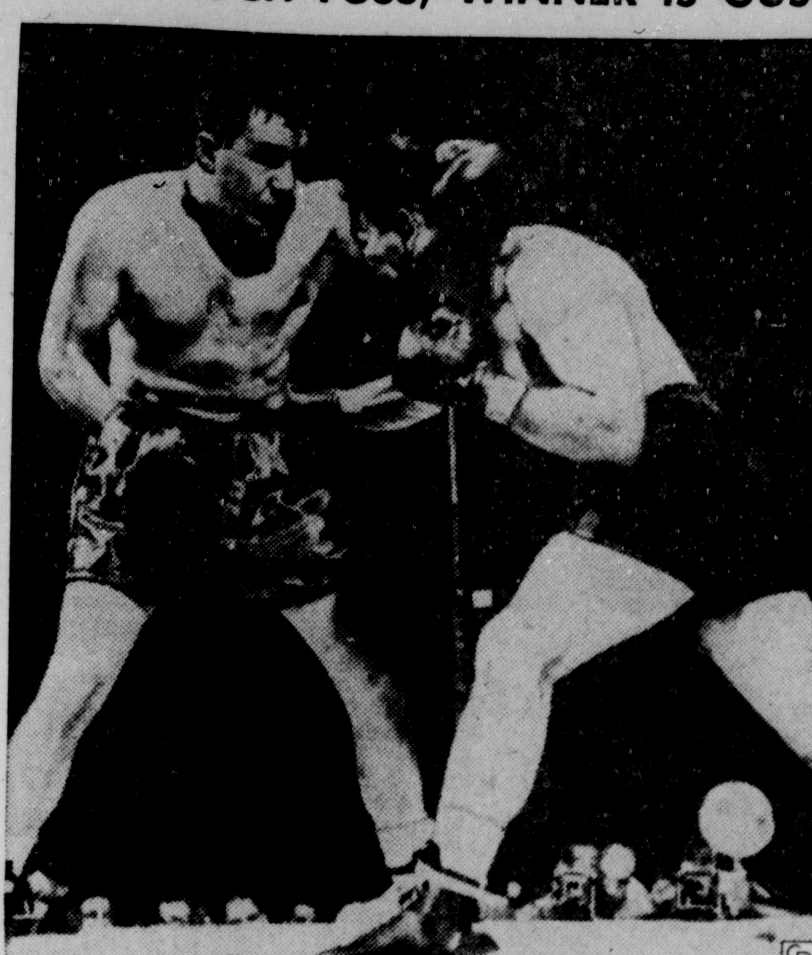

The Community band played a concert in the shelter house, then moved to the ball field and played between innings.

BRAMHAM HONORED
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 1—National Association President George M. Trautman announced today that he will dedicate a plaque to his predecessor, the late Judge William G. Bramham, at baseball's Cooperstown, N. Y., hall of fame next Friday. Bramham who died at his Durham, N. C., home July 8, will be the first minor league executive to be honored at the famous diamond shrine.

university campus. Yesterday's morning session was devoted to aerial workouts, with Ernal Allen, former Kentucky passing ace, throwing from the T-formation for the first time.

NOT MUCH FUSS; WINNER IS GUS

ALTHOUGH his win over Tami Mauriello wasn't of the spectacular variety, Gus Lesnevich, the light heavyweight champion, may get a non-title shot at Joe Louis in the fall. Gus misses a right to the body in this action shot of the fight in Ebbets Field. (International)

BIS HERD RECEIVES HIGH SCORE FOR HOLSTEIN TYPE

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., Aug. 1—Boys Industrial School, Lancaster, Ohio, has recently had an additional number of animals in its herd inspected and classified for type. The Holstein-Friesian Association of America announced. The inspection was conducted by Clair I. Miller, Medina, Ohio, one of the 11 officials appointed by the Association to do this work in the United States.

Among the animals classified in this herd, five were designated "good plus"—the third highest score an animal can receive. This is the 4th time this herd has been classified for type.

The type classification, combined with a production testing program, is used as a means of proving sires and locating outstanding blood cow families in an owner's herd.

BITING THE HAND

CZECHOSLOVAKIA has felt no particular gratitude for aid given it by UNRRA, because they believe it was financed by wealthy capitalist interests, says George Weller, writing from Prague. The fact that America's contribution comes from the labor of her people and the resources of her land has never been pointed out to its beneficiaries, says this writer.

This condition is laid to the fact that there are no individually owned newspapers in Czechoslovakia and the press is Communist-controlled. Soviet forces are molding thought there into forms inimical to Western philosophy. A strong campaign is now under way to prove that the United States is planning a new war with a revived Germany as her ally. The Soviet powers seem to find this twisting of facts and perversion of the truth necessary since the inception of the plan to make Germany self-reliant and productive.

Czechoslovakia has always been friendly to the United States. A large number of her people have come to this country and have become valuable citizens, loyal to their adopted land. It seems a pity that a friend should be changed to a blind, uncomprehending enemy by an unscrupulous outside influence. There is a field here for counter-propaganda of a constructive nature.

SCHOOL AGAINST BUST

ROGER W. BABSON, who predicted the last depression with such accuracy that he feels equipped to prepare for the next, is founding another of his schools of economics in Kansas.

This institution will be called by the forward-looking title of Utopia College, and will provide courses in economic trends, business cycles, investments, and real estate. Such instruction, according to Bab-son, will provide preparation for the next depression, and might even prevent one.
The school is open to college graduates and non-graduates over 30 years of age.

If knowledge of their origins can prevent depressions, such a school should be crowded. Knowledge inevitably precedes prevention in any line, but the right people have to have the knowledge. The man upon whom the economic health of the country depends are probably too busy to go to school, but perhaps a little leaven can help to leaven the whole lump.

One of the finest things in recent American history is the way North and South America are beginning to learn to get along together. And if this continues, our western world may develop into just one big, fine, universal America of many nations but with close bonds of friendship and mutual interest.

Many Americans are scared about Russia, but Russia is still more scared about the U. S. A.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 — The "resignation" of Ben Cohen was hardly that. The departure of the old Roosevelt brain trust-er from his position as counselor of the state department was given out to the public somewhat enigmatically, as if anyone were permitted to attach his own interpretation with no flights of imagination barred. In fact, in one paper I read it on the society page although it was not represented as a social note, but as a small news item which apparently did not fit any place else.

Nearly all the authentic inside stories agree on one explanation for the "resignation", namely this:

Cohen made a speech on the west coast saying Europe should get $5 to $6 billions more a year from us for 3 to 4 years. This scared the decimal points out of the treasury people, including Treasury Secretary Snyder, who knows Mr. Truman better than Cohen. But it may have been an even greater surprise to the Europeans because a few weeks later all London anonymously asked for was $3 billions a year for 3 years, or rather that was the first figure to come out of their anonymous "experts examining requirements of the continent in the light of the Marshall proposal."

The newsmen here say privately Cohen may not have obtained an even break in justice on his speech. They looked it up and all he said was that the experts (another anonymous set) who had looked into the situation had said that Europe needed the $15 billion $24 billion American money he mentioned, on top of the $19.5 billion which we already have appropriated. Thus Cohen had some anonymous experts who said Europe needed much more of our money than the London anonymous experts (quoted in a front page dispatch to the New York Times.)

Whoever Cohen's anonymous experts were they were not official as far as the White House is concerned; or the treasury, where an idea has been expressed that the amount of "more money" needed in addition to the $19.5 billion we have already appropriated would be zero, if Europe adopted the Marshall plan of self-help economically and politically.

But do not deduce from this set of inner circumstances that Cohen just became angry and quit. His resignation is supposed to have been on President Truman's desk since Jimmy Byrnes resigned as state secretary. Cohen was a Byrnes man. He had aided the former secretary with economic advice when Byrnes earlier had been national stabilizer. An insider, authoritative on this subject, has suggested Mr. Truman himself took up the resignation at this time in a polite way.

The announcement of the resignation was made after Marshall had been called to the White House by Mr. Truman. The natural implication that Marshall had something to do with the resignation directly may not be entirely warranted. Marshall was consulted about a successor mostly,
and he selected his own man to be his state department counselor in Cohen's place.
Marshall chose Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen, who has been functioning as counselor for a long time on the primary foreign policy, namely Russia. In fact, most state authorities agree Bohlen has been the real working level authority behind the development of the Russian and American policies.

The Russians were said (at the time the change was made,) to be all set to circulate in this country a story that some relatives of Bohlen's at some time was in the

"The Authority on Authorities"

HOW BIG A TEN-SPOT IS

A LOWLY ten-spot can be a great big card in some hands.
Failure to hold it, in a suit with higher honors, can alter entirely the correct way to play the combination to favor getting the best possible results. Countless players disregard the fact, when leading a queen or jack toward an ace or king, when instead they should lead a small card, sticking in one of the intermediate honors only if the first opponent to play puts on a low one. If that defender comes in with the missing honor, the declarer then manages to save one of his intermediates.

Three quick diamond tricks put South into a position when he necessitated his cleaning up the rest of them. That appeared an impossibility unless three finesses would work—against which the odds were overwhelming. West had to hold the heart K and East the two black kings. But anyway, there was nothing to do but try.
East's return to the fourth trick was the club 4, so that South was instantly up against one of his finessing situations. He stuck in the Q and it held. So far so good. Next he decided to reach dummy via the heart finesse. He led the J, West covered with the K and the A won. Now he could see that he was home if the spade finesse would work.

But right there he went wrong.
He led the spade J from dummy.
When the K forced the A, his contract was cooked. There was now no earthly way to prevent the 10 from winning the third spade trick, as three higher honors, the J, K and A, had been used up on one trick.

To protect himself, South should have provided for the very situation that happened to exist.
Because he lacked the 10, he should have led low from the dummy, prepared to play the Q if East played low, the A if he played the K. Notice that the heart suit was an entirely different proposition because, in addition to the A, Q and J, South had the 10. In that suit he could afford to risk squandering the J.

DIET AND HEALTH

Accidental Swallowing Of Nails, Needles, and the Like

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

INDIGESTIBLE objects such as pins or coins are frequently swallowed accidentally. Sometimes in military life the swallowing of such things is deliberate on the part of those who wish to be relieved of some unpleasant duty.

Dr. Geoffrey St. J. Hallett, of England, in making a study of a number of these cases, discovered that a surprising assortment of such objects will pass through the stomach and bowel without doing any damage. These include such things as nails, pieces of glass, spoon handles, pieces of wire, brass knuckles, broken razor-blades, and even needles.

Time Required

It may require from 48 hours to 12 days for such objects to pass through the intestines.

In only one instance among 19 patients who had swallowed such objects, did an object perforate or stick through the bowel. To prevent such perforations, it may be helpful in some cases to give mineral oil, but laxatives should not be employed, since these cause movement of the intestine which might tend to bring on a perforation.

From his study, Dr. Hallett concluded that it is advisable to remove objects by means of operation if the objects remain in the same place in the bowel for from seven to eight days. The same is true if the objects are retained in the stomach.

Giving Injection

Sometimes it may be helpful, if the object is retained in the stomach, to give an injection of morphine and hyoscine. This tends to relax the muscle between the stomach and bowel and to allow the object to pass into the intestine.

So long as the object continues to move through the intestine, even slowly, there is no need to have an operation performed. Of course, repeated X-ray examination is necessary to show where the object is located and whether or not it is moving through the intestines.

Sharp Object

A sharp, pointed needle or a similar object which is unlikely to pass through the intestine without causing difficulty, is better removed from the stomach by surgery, soon after it has been swallowed. Operation must be carried out immediately if perforation of the bowel or stomach occurs.

Thus, if some object is swallowed,
it is advisable for the patient to use a normal diet and to have X-rays taken every two or three days to determine just what is occurring.
Then a physician can decide whether or not operation for the removal of the object is necessary.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

HENRIETTA got up and moved toward the door and Poirot said:
"I will walk back with you, Mademoiselle."

They crossed the lane and went through the gate into the chestnut plantation.

Henrietta said:
"We need not go past the pool.
We can go up to the left and along the top path to the flower walk."

Poirot tracked steeply up hill toward the woods. After a while they came to a broad path at right angles across the hillside above the chestnut trees. Presently they came to a bench and Henrietta sat down. Poirot beside her.
The woods were above and behind them and below were the closely planted chestnut groves. Just in front of the seat a curving path led downward, to where just a glimmer of blue water could be seen.

Poirot watched Henrietta without speaking. Her face had relaxed, the tension had gone. It looked rounder and younger. He realized what she must have looked like as a young girl.

He said very gently at last:
"Of what are you thinking, Mademoiselle?"

"Of Ainswick."
"What is Ainswick?"
"Ainswick? It's a place." Almost dreamily, she described Ains-wick to him. The white, graceful house—the big magnolia—growing up it—the whole set in an amphitheater of wooded hills.

"It was your home?"
"Not really. I lived in Ireland.
It was where we came, all of us, for holidays. Edward and Midge and myself. It was Lucy's home actually. It belonged to her father.
After his death it came to Edward."

"Not to Sir Henry? But it is he who has the title."
"Oh, that's K. C. B.," she explained. "Henry was only a distant cousin."

"And after Edward Angkatell, to whom does it go, this Ains-wick?"
"How odd. I've never really thought. If Edward doesn't marry—" She paused. A shadow passed over her face. Hercule Poirot wondered exactly what thought was passing through her mind.

"I suppose," said Henrietta slowly, "it will go to David. So that's why—"

"Why Lucy?"
"Why Lucy asked him here. . . .
David and Ainswick?" She shook her head. "They don't sit somehow."

Poirot pointed to the path in front of them.

"It is by that path, Mademoiselle, that you went down to the swimming pool yesterday?"
She gave a quick shiver.

"No, by the one nearer the house. It was Edward who came his way." She turned on him suddenly. "Must we talk about it any more? I hate the swimming pool."
"I even hate The Hollow."

"I hate the dreadful Hollow behind the little wood."
Its lips in the field above are dabbled with blood-red heath.

The red-ribbed ledges drip with a silent horror of blood,
And Echo there, whatever is ask'd her, answers 'Death.'"

Henrietta turned an astonished face on him.

"Tennyson," said Hercule Poirot, nodding his head proudly.
"The poetry of your Lord Tenny-son."

Henrietta was repeating.
"And Echo there, whatever is ask'd her. . . ." She went on, almost to herself. "But, of course—I see—that's what it is—Echo!"
"How do you mean, Echo?"
"This place—The Hollow itself!"

The HOLLOW

by Agatha Christie
Copyright, 1946, by Agatha Christie Malloway. Distributed by King Features Syndicate

I almost saw it before—on Saturday when Edward and I walked up to the ridge. An echo of Ains-wick. . . . And that's what we are, we Angkatells. Echoes! We're not real—not real as John was real."

She turned to Poirot. "I wish you had known him, M. Poirot. We're all shadows compared with John.
John was really alive."

"I knew that even when he was dying, Mademoiselle."

"I know. One felt it. . . . And John is dead, and we, the echoes, are alive. . . . It's like, you know,
a very bad joke. . . ."

The youth had gone from her face again. Her lips were twisted, bitter with sudden pain.

When Poirot spoke, asking a question, she did not, for a moment, take in what he was saying.

"I am sorry. What did you say,
M. Poirot?"

"I was asking whether your aunt, Lady Angkatell, liked Dr.
Christow."

"Lucy? She is a cousin, by the way, not an aunt. Yes, she liked him very much. . . ."

"And your—also a cousin?—Mr.
Edward Angkatell—did he like Dr.
Christow?"

Her voice was, he thought, a little constrained, as she replied:
"Not particularly—but then he hardly knew him."

"And your—yet another cousin?
—Mr. David Angkatell?"
Henrietta smiled.

"David, I think, hates all of us.
He spends his time immured in the library reading the Encyclopedia Britannica."

"Ah, a serious temperament."
"I am sorry for David. He has had a difficult home life—his mother was unbalanced—an invalid. Now his only way of protecting himself is to try to feel superior to everyone. It's all right as long as it works, but now and then it breaks down and the vulnerable David peeps through."

"Did he feel himself superior to Dr. Christow?"

"He tried to—but I don't think it came off. I suspect that John Christow was just the kind of man that David would like to be.
He disliked John in consequence."

Poirot nodded his head thoughtfully.

"Yes—self-assurance, confidence, virility—all the intensive male qualities. It is interesting—very interesting."

Henrietta did not answer.

Through the chestnuts, down by the pool, Hercule Poirot saw a man stooping, searching for something, or so it seemed.

He murmured, "I wonder—"
"I beg your pardon?"

Poirot said, "This is one of Inspector Grange's men. He seems to be looking for something."

"Crawls, I suppose. Don't policemen look for crawls? Cigarette ash, footprints, burnt matches?"

Her voice held a kind of bitter mockery. Poirot answered seriously:

"Yes, they look for these things
—and sometimes they find them.
But the real crows, Miss Savernake, in a case like this, usually lie in the personal relationships of the people concerned."

"I don't think I understand you."

"Little things," said Poirot, his head thrown back, his eyes half closed. "Not cigarette ash, or a rubber heel mark—but a gesture, a look, an unexpected action. . . ."

Henrietta turned her head sharply to look at him. He felt her eyes, but he did not turn his head. She said:

"Are you thinking of anything in particular?"

"I was thinking of how you stepped forward and took the revolver out of Mrs. Christow's hand and then dropped it in the pool."

He felt the slight start she gave.
But her voice was quite normal and calm.

"Gerda, M. Poirot, is rather a clumsy person. In the shock of the moment, and if the revolver had had another cartridge in it, she might have fired it and—hurt someone."

"But it was rather clumsy of you, was it not, to drop it into the pool?"

"Well—I had had a shock, too."
She paused. "What are you suggesting, M. Poirot?"

Poirot sat up, turned his head, and spoke in a brisk matter-of-fact way:

"If there were fingerprints on that revolver, that is to say, fingerprints made before Mrs. Chris-tow handled it, it would be interesting to know whose they were—and that we shall never know."

Henrietta said quietly, but steady-ly:

"Meaning that you think they were mine. . . . You are suggesting that I shot John and then left the revolver beside him so that Gerda could come along and pick it up and be left holding the baby —that is what you are suggesting, isn't it? But surely, if I did that, you would give me credit for enough intelligence to have wiped off my own fingerprints first!"

"But surely you are intelligent enough to see, Mademoiselle, that if you had done so and if the revolver had had no fingerprints on it but Mrs. Christow's, that would have been very remarkable! For you were all shooting with that revolver the day before. Gerda Christow would hardly have wiped the revolver clean of fingerprints before using it—why should she?"

Henrietta said slowly:

"So you think I killed John?"

"When Dr. Christow was dying, he said 'Henrietta.'"

"And you think that that was an accusation? It was not."

"What was it then?"

Henrietta stretched out her foot and traced a pattern with the toe.
She said in a low voice:

"Aren't you forgetting—what I told you not very long ago? I mean—the terms we were on?"

"Ah, yes—he loved you—and so,
as he is dying, he says 'Henrietta.'
That is very touching."

She turned blazing eyes upon him.

"Must you sneer? But I do not like being lied to—and that, I think, is what you are trying to do."

Henrietta said quietly:

"I have told you that I am not very truthful—but when John said
'Henrietta,' he was not accusing me of having murdered him. Can't you understand that people of my kind, who make things, are quite incapable of taking life? I don't kill people, M. Poirot. I couldn't kill anyone. That's the plain stark truth. You suspect me simply because my name was murmured by a dying man who hardly knew what he was saying."

"Dr. Christow knew perfectly what he was saying. His voice was as alive and conscious as that of a doctor doing a vital operation who says sharply and urgently,
'Nurse, the forceps, please.'"

"But—" She seemed at a loss, taken aback. Hercule Poirot went on rapidly:

"And it is not just on account of what Dr. Christow said when he was dying. I do not believe for one moment that you are capable of premeditated murder—that, no.
But you might have fired that shot in a sudden moment of fierce resentment—and if so—IR-SO, Mademoiselle, you have the creative imagination and ability to cover your tracks."

Henrietta got up. She stood for a moment, pale and shaken, looking at him. She said with a sudden rueful smile:

Hercule Poirot sighed. He

Summer Activities Keep Girl Scouts Busy

Interesting Trips To Zoo and Camp Mark Program

Cincinnati and Pickaway county Girl Scouts are working on projects for the annual Ohio State Fair, where they will be well represented at the junior fair. Their work will be in competition with that of Girl Scouts from all over the state. Numerous projects are in the making and the girls are looking forward with great anticipation to the fair, according to leaders of the organization.

Included in their recent activities, troop number 10 met at Scout Headquarters and went to Sippio lodge for lunch. Following the noon day meal the girls were divided into two groups to make and lay trails. They used sticks and stones as markers. Also included among the afternoon activities was making of nutshell "flowerpots", using wildflowers as their plants. Mrs. Orin Dresbach Jr., supervised their swimming party.

Closing ceremonies, with the flag being lowered and "taps" sung, impressed the little Brownies, making them conscious of their duties and loyalties to their country and its emblem. Mrs. Sam Scothorn and Mrs. V. E. Newman aided the troop leader, Mrs. John R. Heiskell with transportation and the Scout activities.

In the Brownie group present for the outing were, Sally Clifton, Sharon Newman, Beverly Southward, Mary Ann McClure, Louise Mae Clark, Marsha Morgan, Joy McCarty, Sandra McAllister, Carol Lynn Heiskell, Penny Young, Jean Scothorn and Marilyn Evans.

Troop number 6, Ashville, in conjunction with the Boy Scouts of that community had a joint social and band concert on the lawn of the Lutheran church. An appreciative audience attended the affair. Proceeds from the concert will be used for Scout camping and other Scout activities in the county during the year. The troop is under the leadership of Mrs. Felix Dore and Mrs. Roger Hedges, Ashville.

The Columbus zoo was the scene for another outing for Girl Scout troop number 10. They made a complete tour of the zoo and had a picnic lunch. Transportation was provided by Mrs. H. E. Haecker, Mrs. H. A. Davis, Mrs. V. E. Newman and Mrs. Joe Moats.

Brownies that were on the Columbus outing included Luanna Dresbach, Dorothy Renick, Sandra McAllister, Joy McCarty, Marsha Morgan, Sally Clifton, Sharon Newman, Beverly Southward, Mary Ann McClure and Louise Mae Clark.

WEDDING ANNOUNCED

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Edith Wooten daughter of Mrs. Anna Wooten, Williamsport, and James T. Steele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Steele, Laurelsville.

The Rev. W. H. Muncy officiated for the single ring ceremony on Friday, July 25 in Greenup, Kentucky. Mr. Steele is employed at Eshelman's, Cincinnati, after serving four and a half years with the Army Air Corps during World War II. They are making their home with the bride's mother.

SOCIETY TO PICNIC

Members of the Von Bora society of Trinity Lutheran church will gather Monday at 6 p. m. in Ted Lewis park for a picnic supper. Executive committee members are in charge of all arrangements for the outing.

Christmas Party Given By W. S. C. S. Of Hedges Chapel

Members of Women's Society of Christian Service of the Hedges Chapel assembled in the church Thursday afternoon for a special program and meeting. Mrs. Martin Cromley, president, presided for a brief business session.

Mrs. J. C. Cromley, Mrs. Della Rife and Mrs. Laura Pontius gave interesting reports and listed the highlights of the W.S.C.S. meetings at the Lancaster Camp Ground. Devotional theme, "In Wisdom and in Stature" was presented by Mrs. Ray Plum and Mrs. Kermit Massie.

Mrs. Russell Hedges, leader of the Girl's Interest group, was in charge of the afternoon's program. She used the Christmas theme in carrying out her program. Gifts and toys of all descriptions were brought to the meeting by members of the society, which will later be sent as Christmas presents to a settlement house in India.

"There's a Song in the Air" was sung by girls of the Interest group. Elaine Quillian who attended the Lancaster junior camp told of camping activities. Judith Fausnaugh, Genevieve Dresbach and Donna May told of their experiences at other camps. Virginia and Anna Owens sang, "The Sweetest Story", accompanied at the piano by Sara Jane Hedges.

Barbara Dern and Sara Jane Hedges, members of a 4-H club told of their recent trip through the J. W. Eshelman and Sons mill and the Container Corporation of America, Cincinnati. Elaine Quillian and Barbara Dern told of the 4-H camp in Tar Hollow. They displayed pins, headbands and earrings they had made in the Art Craft classes.

Mrs. Russell Hedges gave a review of the extension camp at Tar Hollow where 16 women from Pickaway county were enrolled for the three day Summer vacation. Sara Jane Hedges concluded the program as she played the Christmas carol, "Silent Night".

Refreshments were served from an attractive tea table, centered with a bowl of pastel ragged robins. Soft candlelight glowed from pink and blue tapers placed at either end of the table. Brightly wrapped gifts for those in India completely surrounded the decorated Christmas tree, which stood in a corner of the diningroom.

Hostesses for the special "Christmas Party in July" were Mrs. Ivah Dill, Mrs. Alva May, Miss Anna Olive and Miss Harriet Weaver.

Words of Wisdom

Tact is one of the first mental virtues, the absence of which is often fatal to the best of talents; it supplies the place of many talents.—Simms.

Hints on Etiquette

Refreshments at card tables are usually candy and nuts, placed on the tables in little dishes and kept replenished throughout the evening. Cold (or hot) beverages may be served between rounds, and if smoking is in order, cigars are placed on each table by the hostess, with matches.

Today's Horoscope

August's birthstone is the sardonyx, its flower is the gladioli, and colors are orange and red. The person whose birthday falls on Aug. 1 has intuitive powers, is somewhat fastidious in tastes, and is bold, even to the point of foolhardiness. If this is your anniversary, you have perseverance and through it overcome many difficulties. You are fond of outdoor sports and travel. You are gentle, affectionate, fond of children, and love your home and family. The day is adverse. Things are likely to boomerang or have unfavorable reactions. Act with caution and carefully guard personal affairs. In your next year matrimonial, love or family health, may beset you. Refuse unnecessary risks in all things, albeit succor from a secret source is vouchsafed you. Born robust and health will need extra care. Family troubles will also retard progress, but secret aid will be forthcoming.

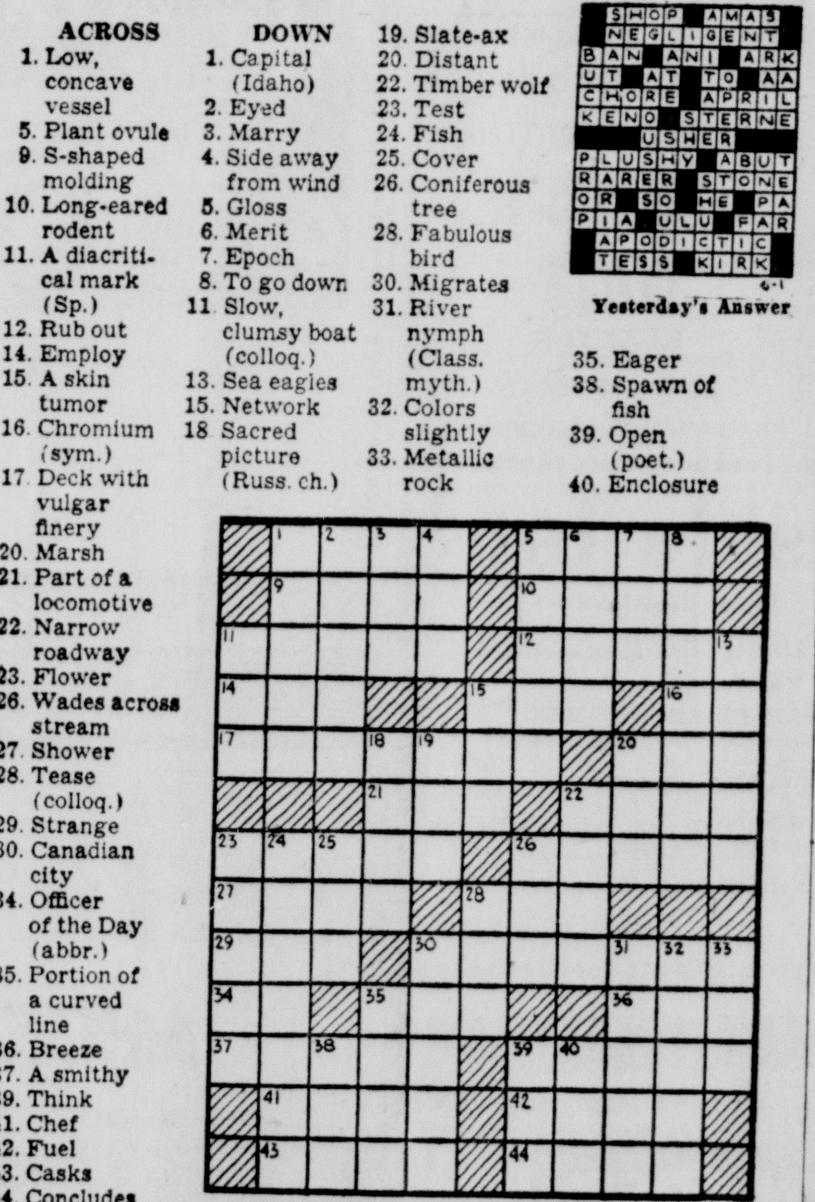

One-Minute Test Answers

1. Rudyard Kipling.

2. Samuel Taylor Coleridge.

3. Alfred Tennyson.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

one of the biggest jukebox hits of the season when it is released will be Tony Martin's Victor etching of "You're Not So Easy to Forget." The CBS singing star recorded it this week.

"The Whistler," heard Wednesday on CBS, is getting a new director, James G. Connors, prominent advertising agency man.

The possessors of one of the finest private collections of nursery rhyme recordings in the country are five-year-old Candace (Candy) and two-year-old Christina (Christy) Monroe. Their father is Maestro Vaughn Monroe who has wrapped his deep baritone voice around virtually every nursery jingle ever written and placed them on wax for his daughters. Naturally, their father is their favorite recording artist. Monroe's recording company is now dickering with the singing maestro to do a series of records for release to the baby carriage trade.

mer replacement. "Arthur's Place" over CBS will no longer use guest stars. Passenger train radios may be installed in nation's streamliners following pattern set up Santa Fe lines. Oscar Levant slated to be one of the permanent fixtures on the new NBC Al Jolson show this fall.

Red Foley's Cumberland Valley Boys have a new number. He is Jerry Byrd, who guest starred recently on the NBC "Grand Ole Opry," and who made such a hit with his hot steel-guitar playing that Foley has added him to his band heard on the show each Saturday.

Leora Thatcher, who frequently appears in roles on "Perry Mason" over CBS, has been in radio since 1932 when she made her start over Station KSL in Salt Lake City. Besides her radio work, she has appeared in many Broadway productions, including the role of "Ada" in the New York "Tobacco Road" company.

"Summerfield Band Concert," pretty Kay Starr has been signed for a singing engagement at the El Cortijo in Santa Barbara, Calif., beginning Aug. 15.

Beryl Davis, English importation, is finding herself busier on the air than many of her American singing cousins. She's heard regularly on the Phil Silvers Show over ABC, she will be a guest on the same network during a special Army Air Forces Day program July 31 and she will make her third guest appearance on the Vaughn Monroe Show over CBS Saturday night, Aug. 2.

Interest Keen In Biggest County Fair

Record Lists Of Entries Made For Big Event On September 10, 11, 12, 13

Pickaway county's 1947 fair will be the biggest ever presented.

Those are the words of members of the fair board of directors and a peek at proofs of the official premium list backs up this statement.

Full programs for all four days of the fair, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 10, 11, 12 and 13, are already assured.

TOM HARMAN, fair manager, said that interest in all types of events has been very keen. Each group is vying with others trying to make an outstanding showing.

More buildings will house the enlarged exhibits this year. Efforts are being made to get most of them now under construction ready for the opening day of the big event.

Features of the 1947 show include three days of racing, Thursday, Friday and Saturday; horse pulling contests, horse show, junior fair day, western horse show, flower show and many, many more events.

BOYS AND girls are expected to show more of their work than in last year's fair. New clubs have been added this year and the new members are scheduled to swell the entry lists to new records. Dairy and beef cattle shows—open to the world—will attract some of the finest cattle ever shown here. These events are in addition to the livestock shown by the 4-H club members.

Larger prizes in various classes of the different events will make for a bigger and better show.

Fair board office in the court house is open daily and manager Harman is kept busy every afternoon accepting entries and straightening numerous details of the biggest fair the county has ever held.

SOLONS PREPARE TO SAIL DESPITE 'NO WIVES' RULE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—A "no wives" rule was clamped down today on the special House committee which will investigate European economic needs and members learned they were in for a gruelling trip.

One of the congressmen who will make the trip Aug. 21 for a five weeks' stay in Europe revealed that Rep. Herter (R) Mass., in charge of the foreign tour, "laid down the law right away."

He told reporters: "Herter right away said no wives were to be taken on the trip, as is customary. Everybody is to meet in New York the day before we sail on the Queen Mary and be briefed by the state department on what it thinks the European nations need."

"Herter has already reserved the conference room on the Queen Mary and we will meet there daily and discuss our itinerary and plans."

"After we get to London, we get right to work. First we'll visit the German Ruhr, then divide into subcommittees and fan out over the continent."

SPEED COUNTS AT Milking Time

Washing with hot water (130°F) not only promotes sanitation but stimulates the let-down action.

Faster milking, according to dairy tests, helps increase milk production. The gentle, thorough action of McCormick-Deering Milkers helps your cows let down their milk faster—and give more milk. McCormick-Deering Milkers also decrease the amount of strappings and help maintain healthy udders. Take good care of your milker. Ask us for suggestions on keeping it operating efficiently.

Foremilking reduces bacteria count and is a check on the health and condition of the udder. A uniform routine for time and order of milking is important.

Test cups on McCormick-Deering Milkers can be put in place quickly and the cow milked out quickly (3 or 4 minutes). Strip at once after removing the milker unit.

SUPERFORTS SET NEW FLIGHT RECORD

New Waves Of Violence Rock Palestine Area

BRITISH TROOPS ATTACK JEWS TO AVENGE DEATHS

Reprisals Follow Reprisals As Situation Worsens In Holy Land

JERUSALEM, Aug. 1—Jewish sources in Jerusalem reported today that "enraged" Jews have attacked the district commissioner's office at Tel Aviv following a new clash in which 33 Jews were injured.

The informants said three of the Jews were shot and the balance injured in police baton charges.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 1—Bomb explosions, shootings and other acts of violence rocked wide areas of Palestine today in wake of the "reprisal" murders of two British army sergeants in a peaceful eucalyptus grove near Nathanya.

Three bombs or grenades were hurled at headquarters of the British Hampshire regiment situated in the Jewish Rehavia quarter of Jerusalem. Four Jews armed with phosphorus bombs attempted to scale the wire enclosure surrounding the building.

One was reported "riddled with bullets". A woman and child were wounded by stray bullets in the melee.

MEMBERS of the Jewish agency executive were in conference with Jewish national council heads in a nearby building when the new violence broke out.

They took refuge under tables and escaped injury but a number.

BRITISH TROOPS MAY BE TAKEN FROM GREECE

LONDON, Aug. 1—An authoritative source said today that British officials are "urgently" examining the possibility of withdrawing British troops from Italy and Greece.

The examinations assertedly are being made in close consultation with the United States.

He pointed out, however, that this does not necessarily imply that the United States would be called upon to take over in these countries.

The foreign office disclaims any knowledge of present considerations of a like nature in regard to occupation forces in Austria and Germany.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

The vegetarian party has quietly nominated its candidate for president and gone back to its salad bowl.

The vegetarians picked an 84-year-old man—that should squash the idea that there is no future in lettuce.

And Republicans and Democrats have cause to worry. With the price of meat as it is there may be 60 million voters in the rutabaga ranks by election day.

It will be interesting now if Wallace gets into the race as an independent—raw vegetables vs raw meat.

But it will be a change from the dull platforms of the past to hear someone campaigning on the plank "a full vegetable plate for every workman."

As it stands now, those who can get meat will vote Republican, those who can't will vote Democrat, and those who can but won't will vote vegetarian.

Elliott Roosevelt Backed Hughes Bid

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—The Brewster committee was told today that purchase of 100 high-speed Howard Hughes photo planes was ordered in 1943 on recommendation of Elliott Roosevelt after the plane had been rejected by Army Air Forces experts.

The committee received testimony that Gen. H. H. Arnold, then chief of the air forces, overrode the experts' advice after Roosevelt reported that the Hughes plane was "the most suitable type" available.

Maj. Gen. Oliver P. Echols, retired, former assistant chief of air staff, testified that the

PETITIONS FOR COUCH FILED

Smith Also Reported Seeking Post On Circleville School Board

Nominating petitions of A. Vaden Couch, 120 East Mill street, candidate for member of the Circleville board of education, were filed Thursday afternoon with the Pickaway county board of elections. Mr. Couch is general manager of the Ralston Purina company in Circleville.

Petitions nominating James I. Smith, Jr., 1235 South Court street, for membership on the Circleville school board, were reported in circulation Friday.

Mr. Smith is president of the Esmeralda Canning company.

With the filing of Mr. Couch's petitions and the expected filing of petitions on behalf of Mr. Smith it appears that at the Nov. 4 election the voters will elect three contenders from a field of five men for membership on the school board.

Three candidates whose petitions were filed prior to Thursday are: Robert Shadley, 221 East High street; J. O. Eagleson, 702 North Pickaway street; and Attorney Ray W. Davis, 120 Montclair avenue. Mr. Eagleson, present clerk of the board, seeks reelection.

Other candidates at the Nov. 4 election whose petitions were

FERGUSON SAYS NO PAY CHECK FOR CONSULTANT

COLUMBUS, Aug. 1—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson served notice today that he would refuse to pay the salary of Frank L. Raschig as consultant to the director of public works.

George B. Sowers, of Cleveland, succeeded Raschig today as director and, by arrangement with Governor Herbert, was to appoint Raschig as consultant at $7,500 a year—$1,000 more than the Cincinnati had received as director.

Sowers will receive $9,500, the new salary set by the legislature. Ferguson wrote Governor Herbert that he could not recognize the newly-established position of consultant because "up to the present time it has never been necessary for the state to have two public works directors."

DAYTON FIREWORKS BLAST DESTROYS FOUR BUILDINGS

DAYTON, Aug. 1—A series of four explosions at the United Fireworks company, Inc., on Union road, four miles west of Dayton, destroyed four buildings at the plant and was felt throughout the entire Dayton city area today.

No one was reported injured as the blasts shattered windows in nearby homes and damaged numerous other buildings.

JULY RAINFALL TOTAL FIXED AT 10.24 INCHES

August Arrives With Cool Breezes But Heat Will Return Soon

Circleville area residents who enjoyed cooling breezes Friday in contrast with the preceding heat and humidity can expect a return of sizzling temperatures over the weekend.

The official forecast is fair and cool Friday and Friday night, followed by increasing cloudiness and rising temperatures Saturday.

From a high reading of 88 degrees Thursday afternoon the mercury descended to a low of 50 early Friday, the reading at 8 a. m. Friday was 60 degrees.

RAINFALL measured 10.24 inches during July's 31 days, it was reported by Charles Carter, Circleville weather observer, as compared with 3.61 inches in June, 4.84 inches in May, and 7.54 inches in April.

The figure of 10.24 inches for July's precipitation was far above normal and it includes 5.28 inches of rain which descended in a veritable cloudburst the night of July 14 and brought to Circleville and immediate vicinity a flash flood which, together with cyclonic winds, did damage estimated at more than $100,000.

THE CAPRICIOUS Ohio weather turned from hot to cold today, with the mercury this morning plunging to probable new low marks in many places.

Hayesville reported a low of 45 degrees and it was 47 at Youngstown and Zanesville.

From a high of 94 yesterday afternoon at Chesapeake, the mercury dropped 34 degrees to a low of 60 this morning.

The weatherman forecast continued cool conditions through tonight, with the mercury getting on the incline again tomorrow afternoon.

JULY IN OHIO ended yesterday as did the four previous

ROOSEVELT SON WILL GO BEFORE BREWSTER GROUP

BOSTON, Aug. 1—Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late president, declared today in an interview with International News Service at Logan Airport that he was going to Washington to appear Aug. 4 before the Brewster committee.

Roosevelt said he had not been subpoenaed to appear before the committee.

Elliott talked while waiting to board a plane for New York after arriving by automobile with his wife, Faye Emerson Roosevelt, from Presque Isle, Me.

He said he had "no comment to make at this time."

In answer to questions he admitted he was going to Washington and would appear before the committee, but that he had not been subpoenaed.

Taft Opens Unofficial Presidential Campaign With Foreign Policy Blast

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 1—

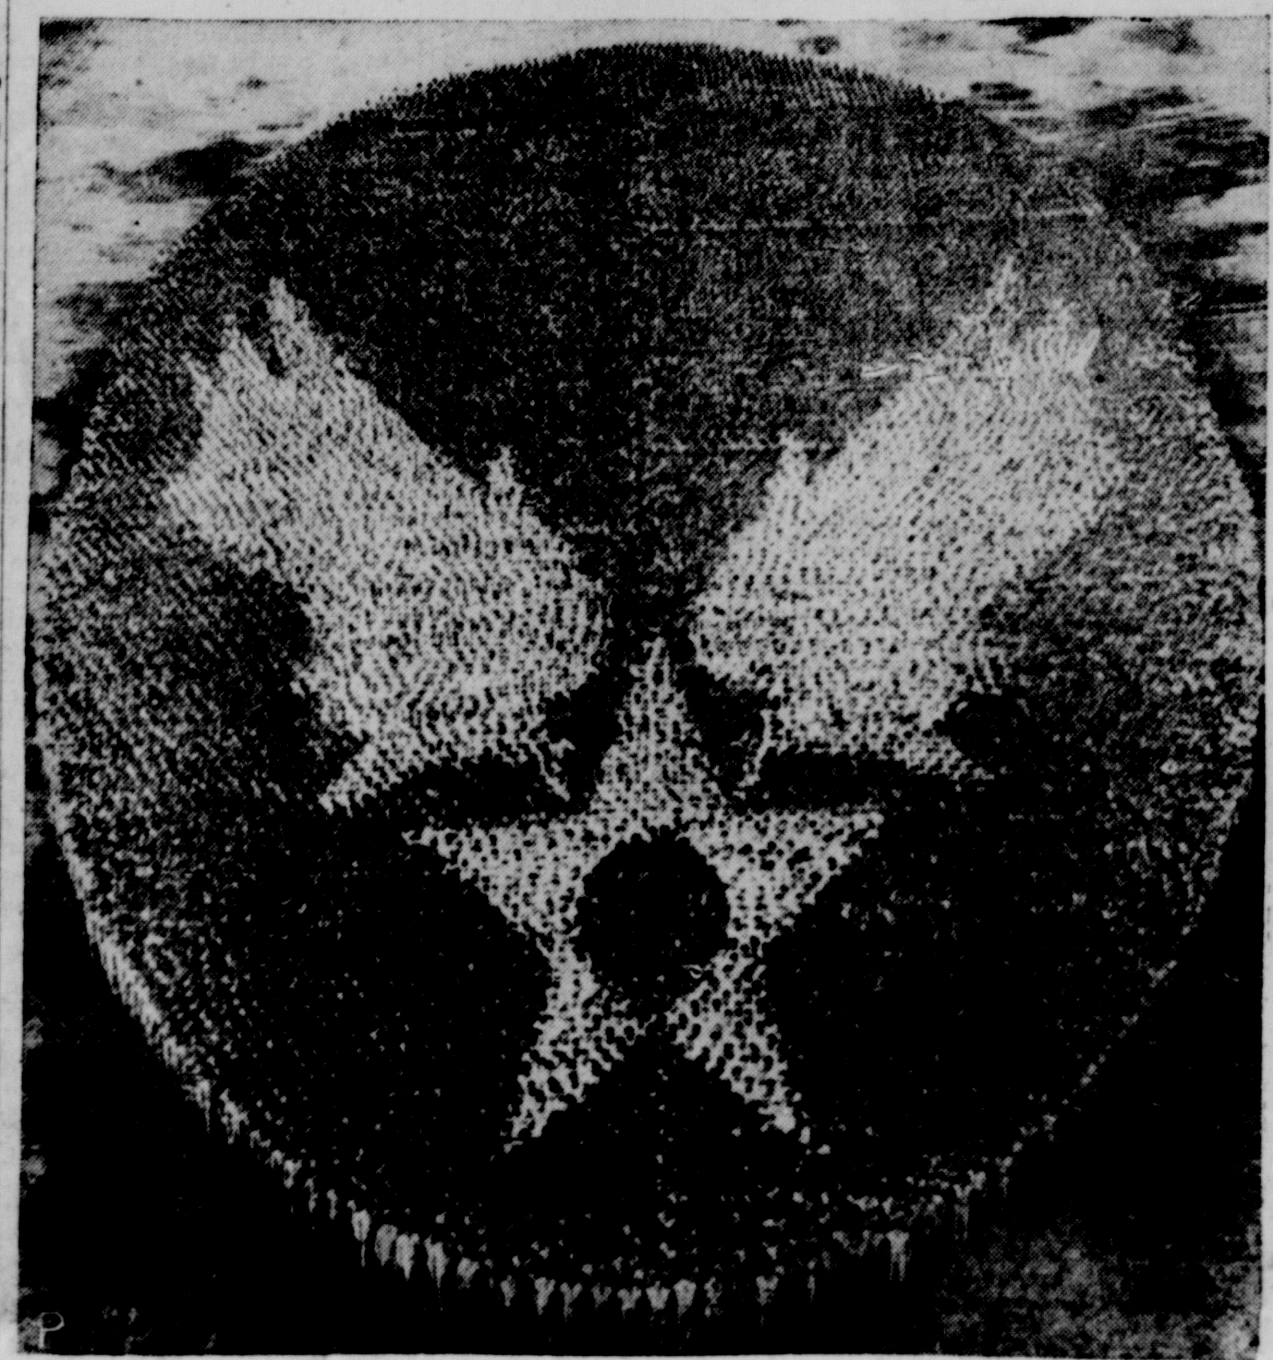

Ohio's undeclared presidential candidate, Sen. Robert A. Taft, shoved his unofficial campaign into high gear today with a bitter condemnation of the German occupation policy and the Roosevelt-Truman agreements at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam.

Taft's 1948 campaign was launched willy-nilly for him by a state-wide rally in Columbus in which all Ohio Republican leaders, including his junior senatorial colleague, John W.

Bricker, endorsed him for the presidency.

Taft countered only with the assertion that he was "greatly complimented" and promised a definite statement early in October—after he determines "whether there is a good probability of my nomination and election."

HIS INVASION of the foreign policy field, which heretofore he had left to Michigan's Sen. Ar-

Founding Of Air Force Marked Around World

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—Flight of B-29 Superfortresses to Washington from Japan today highlighted the nation's observance of Air Force Day.

Throughout the world observances are scheduled today to commemorate the 40th anniversary of the founding of the U. S. Air Corps.

OVER THE MIDWEST, more than 100 Superfortresses will participate in a spectacular display of the nation's aerial might.

DUTCH TROOPS CONTINUE OFFENSIVE IN EAST INDIES

BATAVIA, Aug. 1—Dutch troops occupied the airfield at Rematang Siantar, in northern Sumatra, today while others converged upon the flaming port of Tjilatjap in southern Java.

thor H. Vandenberg while Taft acted as spokesman on domestic issues, indicated that his October statement would be an acceptance.

The Ohioan, who lost the 1940 nomination to Wendell Willkie and who bowed out in 1944 in Bricker's favor, condemned the German occupation as having "wrecked the economy of Europe" while in the presidential agreements "we practically abandoned all of the ideals for

STRIKE NEARS IN AUTO PLANTS

Ford Accuses Auto Workers Of Making Company Guinea Pig For Taft-Hartley Bill

DETROIT, Aug. 1—Negotiations for the Ford Motor Co. and the CIO-United Automobile Workers resumed contracts today to end a deadlock which threatens a strike Monday of 107,000 workers.

CIO President Philip Murray rejected a personal plea for intervention from company president Henry Ford II. Murray replied that the matter should be settled locally. It was revealed that the proposal failed because UAW vice president Richard T. Leonard balked at Murray's intervention.

Ford confirmed his appeal in a statement issued in New York. Leonard said Ford talked to Murray in the presence of UAW president Walter Reuther and Ford vice presidents John S. Bugas and Ernest R. Brench.

The UAW vice president said an attempt was made to arrange negotiations in New York or Pittsburgh. Murray refused comment.

In his statement, Ford accused the auto workers of using his company as a guinea pig in an effort to circumvent part of the Taft-Hartley

FIRE DESTROYS LOCALITE'S CAR ON 104 EARLY FRIDAY

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the auto of Homer Lowery, Circleville, at 4:45 a. m. Friday on State Route 104 in Scioto township. Firemen called to the scene from Circleville were unable to save the car. Amount of the loss was undetermined.

At 11:05 p. m. Thursday firemen extinguished a blaze in a taxicab on West Main street, and at 7:45 p. m. Thursday a fire in an auto parked near the Pickaway county courthouse resulted in the summoning of firemen. The loss was reported small in each instance. Origin of the fires was undetermined.

SEVEN B-29S TAKE 33½ HOURS FOR LONG TRIP

Mass Flight From Tokyo Ends At Washington; One Plane Delayed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—Seven B-29 Superfortresses landed at nearby Andrews Field, Md., at 11:29 A. M. (EST) today completing a one-stop mass flight from Tokyo in 33 hours and 28 minutes to break the record by one hour and two minutes.

The previous record was 34 hours and 30 minutes.

An eight Superfort, forced to land at Adak for repairs, was trailing the seven four-engine giants and was expected in Washington later today.

THE FLIGHT, made as part of observance of the Army Air Forces' 40th anniversary, skimmed over the tip of the Washington monument at exactly 11 o'clock a few minutes before landing.

The Tokyo-Washington bombers were exactly 32 hours and 59 minutes out of the Japanese capital as they skimmed low over Washington.

Gen. Kenney Points Out Air Gains

By GEN. GEORGE C. KENNEY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—Airpower has come a long way since Gen. Billy Mitchell, architect of the air victory of World War II, was court-martialed and practically forced to resign from the service for his determined effort to awaken a slumbering nation to the terrible potential of warfare in the sky.

Last week, congress vindicated his name and his objectives when they approved unification of the armed services and established a separate air department as a co-equal partner in the defense of this country.

Today, perhaps more than ever before, the United States is conscious of its responsibilities—and its vulnerability—in the air age.

TECHNICAL sciences of airpower have caught up with the strategic pattern laid down by Billy Mitchell 20 years ago.

The 10,000-mile bomber is swiftly becoming a reality instead of a cartoonist's dream. Jet and rocket propelled fighters

EVIDENCE LINKS HIROHITO WITH HIGH WAR GUILT

TOKYO, Aug. 1—Evidence indicating emperor Hirohito shares directly in the war guilt was shown to Australian external affairs minister Herbert V. Evatt in Tokyo today by a high official of the international military tribunal.

The official called Evatt's attention to an entry in the diary of Marquis Koichi Kido.

This item stated the emperor had personally ordered the launching of the Pacific War after listening to the Japanese navy's objections to the enterprise.

Along with "Pearl Harbor Premier" Hideki Tojo and 23 others, the marquis presently is on trial before the international far east tribunal charged with major war crimes.

In his diary, Kido wrote he had been told by Prince Takamatsu, the emperor's brother, that Hirohito had conferred with Tojo and two high navy officers Nov. 30, 1941, a week before the Pearl Harbor attack.

ber of windows were broken by the explosions and rifle fire.
The resumption of anti-British attacks followed last night's rioting in the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv in which British troops killed five Jews and wounded 40 others in obvious retaliation for the underground's hanging of two soldier-hostages.
The two British sergeant victims of Irgun meanwhile were buried with full military honors in the British cemetery at Ramleh.

SIRENS SOUNDED through the capital, warning of possible further anti-British attacks by the Palestine underground—particularly in view of Irgunist warnings of a "blood bath" in reprisal for the execution of three convicted extremists.
The sirens sounded ten minutes before the Jewish community in Tel Aviv was to begin a two-hour "silent period" in honor of the victims of last night's obvious retaliation for the underground's reprisal-hanging of two soldier-hostages.
Official quarters withheld information concerning the bloody rioting which, in effect, constituted a reign of terror over Tel Aviv.

HOWEVER, authoritative quarters said a joint army-civilian police inquiry is to be held into the incident.
Wildly careening armored cars and jeeps laden with infuriated khaki-clad men waged a reign of terror in the all-Jewish city for several hours, beginning soon after the booby-trapped bodies of the hapless sergeant-hostages were found near Nathanya.

A withering fire was poured from the speeding military vehicles, into shops, street crowds and busses.
Another horde, estimated at 30 or 40 British troops, wrecked two cafes and clashed with fiercely resisting Jewish patrons.
Apparently the first incident occurred when 12 soldiers in two jeeps drove into the heart of the tension-ridden city and manhandled passersby, a score of whom were hurt. Five were so badly mauled that they had to be hospitalized.
Shortly afterward, further rioting broke out and shots were exchanged with civilian "vigilante" squads. In this melee, seven of the rioters were hurt, and two soldiers were disarmed by numerically superior Jewish groups. From then on, violence mushroomed.

HITCH-HIKING YOUTH HELD IN JAIL FOR INVESTIGATION

Robert Acker, 16, claiming New York and St. Louis as his home cities was in police custody Friday in Circleville and the youth was scheduled to be questioned by an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.
Acker was nabbed in the downtown district at 5:30 p. m. Thursday by Police Chief William F. McCrady after the youth declared he was a "hitch-hiker". When discrepancies appeared in the story he told concerning his cross-country wanderings Acker was ordered held for investigation. He was lodged overnight in the Pickaway county jail by John Kerns, juvenile court probation officer.

DUTCH ACCEPT U. S. OFFER IN JAVA DISPUTE

ALKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 1—The Netherlands representative announced in the United Nations security council today the Dutch government "gladly" accepts the United States offer of "good offices" in seeking a settlement of the Indonesia conflict.
E. N. Van Kleffens, the Netherlands representative, disclosed at the resumed meeting of the 11-nation body this morning that the United States' offer announced by U. S. Representative Herschel V. Johnson had been received by his government.
Britain's acting delegate Valentine Lawford immediately proposed that the United States offer might provide a practical solution.
Belgium also indicated its support of the United States offer.
U. S. Representative Johnson declared that the main concern of the council is to secure an immediate cessation of the fighting in Indonesia. He proposed an amendment to the Australian resolution calling for an immediate truce which would eliminate any mention of the U. N. charter and therewith shift the legal question of the council's competence to a subsequent date.

HUGHES BACKED BY ROOSEVELT

would fly to Washington next Wednesday and "not a day sooner."

The multi-millionaire flyer, plane-builder and movie producer, at the same time let fly a verbal haymaker in the general direction of the war investigating committee probing wartime plane contracts.

In a public statement Hughes accused Senator Owen Brewster (R) Maine, of lying in a story that an airplane hostess "didn't dare" to be alone with him in an airplane.

And the wealthy sportsman, in another article copyrighted by the Los Angeles Examiner, told details of the battle between his own Trans-World Airline and Pan American Airways, headed by Juan Trippe, for vital foreign routes.

HUGHES, in fact, unloaded a whole arsenal of verbal fireworks.

He said he was "a little tired of being pushed around and intimidated by Senators Brewster and Ferguson just because they have some very strong powers which are granted all senators, but which were not intended to be misused for the promotion of a three-ring publicity circus."

He added:
"I made a firm agreement with Ferguson's committee that I would appear Wednesday, Aug. 6. I expect to have my facts and figures and dates researched and available at that time."

"I refuse to jump through a hoop like a trained seal and fly all night and appear the next morning without any sleep to testify all day on a most important matter."

Hughes declared he would ask the department of justice to investigate Senator Brewster's relationship with Pan-American Airways.

No man today can accurately foresee what speeds will finally be attained; what altitudes will eventually be conquered.

THE ERA of pushbutton warfare lies well over the horizon. When and how we will effect it, what weapons will be employed, are questions which only skilled scientists and research experts can answer.

The danger, however, exists. It will increase as time goes on.

Any future would-be world conqueror cannot allow the production and military might of America to be mobilized and developed if he is to have any chance of gaining global domination. The centers of industry and population in this country will be number one targets should there ever again be world conflict.

bill which makes unions liable for lawsuits in illegal strikes.

Ford charged that the threatened walkout would be "a strike against the government and the laws of the land."

THE YOUTHFUL executive said the Taft-Hartley bill was the principal issue blocking a contract settlement. However, union spokesmen said another important factor is disagreement on a pension plan.

Ford said the union had rejected a company suggestion of a contract clause under which the firm would not sue the UAW for damages from a wildcat strike.

The paralyzing strike of 7,000 Murray Corp. employees in Detroit and Ecorse, Mich., continued, meanwhile, with no meetings scheduled before Monday. Out for nine days, the Murray workers also seek a contract clause protecting them from liability under the Taft-Hartley act.

It was estimated the Murray strike has idled over 40,000 workers all told.
The U. S. rubber plant in Detroit also remained closed for the ninth day today because of a strike of heavy tire builders. The dispute over work schedules has idled 7,500.

OSU FOOTBALL TICKETS READY, OFFICIAL SAYS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 1—Ohio State University football fans received some welcome news today when ticket sales director Oscar Thomas announced that "all price tickets" are currently available for four home games.
Tickets go on sale to the general public Monday. The priority period for sales to alumni association members and benefactors of the university ended today.

Thomas stated that all price tickets are available for the Missouri, Iowa, Indiana and Northwestern games. He said that a "limited number" of seats, mostly in field boxes or the north end of the stadium, remain unsold for the Illinois and Southern California contests.

The ticket director said season books for sideline seats were sold out as were sideline boxes.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 1—Milk prices jumped a cent in Columbus today. Ward K. Holm, Columbus milk distributors' association secretary, said standard milk would cost 17 cents a quart and coffee cream 18 cents a half pint.

TAFT OPENS HIS 1948 CAMPAIGN

which the war was fought." He stated:

"I am not happy about the country's foreign policy."

"Through the agreements made at Teheran and Yalta by President Roosevelt and at Potsdam by President Truman, we practically abandoned all of the ideals for which the war was fought."

"We created an impossible situation in which freedom is suppressed throughout large sections of Europe and Asia."

"In Germany our policy has been dominated by the harsh and impractical Morgenthau plan, even though the government for many months pretended to repudiate it. I think now they have repudiated it."

"We have made dollars available to foreign countries in almost unlimited amount, with little restriction of the use to be made of them. We have thus permitted the raising of many domestic prices to our own citizens."

AN ACTUAL count of 1272 Ohio Republican leaders, carefully rehearsed to make a good impression over the 268-station nationwide radio hookup, gave Taft a thunderous 60-second

ovation as he stepped to the microphone after his introduction by Bricker.

The speech climaxed the all-day rally, which was limited by invitation and by the capacity of the largest hall available in Columbus.

Present were 19 Ohio congressmen, the overwhelming GOP majority in the state legislature, the state central and executive committee which called the convention, county leaders, elective state officials, and officers of other Republican organizations.
Taft hailed the record of the just-adjourned Republican congress and inferred that the 1948 presidential campaign should be conducted on the basis of its record, and the need for cooperation between the legislative and executive branches of government.

He assailed the president's promise of cooperation as unfulfilled, and declared that "while the presidency remains in Democratic hands, a Republican congress is faced with the job of undoing, step by step, the more serious abuses of the new deal, and in every step it faces a veto by the President."

He charged that President Truman "is completely opposed to the principles of the Republican congress" and "in every crisis and in every decision he has shown he is still dominated by the principles of the CIO."

Conservation Official Bares Plans For Fishing And Recreation Facilities

An oral picture of the 440-acre Memorial Lake Park to be built at the headwaters of Hargus Creek in Pickaway county four and one-half miles northeast of Circleville in the "Devil's Backbone" area, was painted by George R. Emmett, of the Ohio division of conservation, at a meeting of the Rotary club held following a noon luncheon Thursday at the Pickaway Arms.

The speaker declared that the Memorial Lake Park will provide an excellent fishing place and will have facilities for picnics and for general relaxation but that motor-boating will be banned, and that while the park will include a shelter house it will not include cabins.

He asserted that most of the large streams in the nation are "so polluted that fish cannot live in them," that fully 80 per cent of America's forests have been virtually destroyed, and that the Ohio water table is getting lower year after year. He added that 27 soil conservation offices in Ohio are giving battle to the great enemy—soil erosion.

Mr. Emmett cited that the state recently bought 200 acres of the "Devil's Backbone" and under option for establishment of the Memorial Lake Park and that there will be 24 quiet picnic and fishing spots in the state.

BILBO TO BE UNMOLESTED GOP LEADERS INTIMATE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—A leading Republican said today that the GOP leadership has no intention of disturbing the status of Senator-Elect Bilbo (D) Miss., next January.

Bilbo has all the privileges of a senator except the right to vote and to participate in committee actions. He draws his salary and has an office staff.

A high-ranking Republican said that there has been no discussion of further action and pre-

ENGINEER WITH HAND EQUIPMENT FOILS FIREMEN

CHICAGO, Aug. 1—Twenty-five Chicago firemen were cooling off today after indignation, a lot of fruitless exercise and an outdoor temperature of 96.8 sent up their blood pressure.

As Chicago sweltered on the hottest day of the year, the firemen responded to an alarm on the 22nd floor of a loop building. They arrived to find the elevators out of order. All 25 men walked up the 22 floors carrying hose and other equipment.

After the long climb they were greeted by a building engineer who had put out the fire with a hand extinguisher.

League Leaders Have Good Mathematical Chance To Capture Pennant

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The first of August may be a mighty early date to start eliminating pennant contenders mathematically, but the commanding leads enjoyed by the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers call for this procedure today, a month ahead of time.

For instance, if the Yanks win just about half their remaining games, the second-place Boston Red Sox will have to play .712 ball for the balance of the American League campaign to catch them.

And if the Dodgers get approximately an even break down the National League stretch, the St. Louis Cardinals must play .678 ball to catch up. The Giants, although in a virtual tie with the Cards for second place, have played fewer games and would need to maintain a .667 pace to nip the flying Brooks, who have won 13 straight games.

MANAGER Eddie Dyer of St. Louis knew he had to win the Brooklyn series that ended yesterday, but instead of winning it, the Cards lost all three games and now trail the Dodgers by 10 games. The Red Birds overcame a 10-game Brooklyn lead in 1942 but this year it's the Brooks who are hungry.

Pee Wee Reese has been a key man in the Brooklyn spurt. His ninth-inning triple yesterday, his third hit of the game, gave southpaw Vic Lombardi a 2-to-1 decision over Howie Pollet.

JOHNNY MIZE of the Giants hit his 31st homer and Walker Cooper his 24th, both wallpops coming with two men on base, but Grady Hatton duplicated the feat in the eighth inning to give Cincinnati an 8-to-7 win over the New Yorkers.

Mize actually is three games ahead of the home run record of his noted relative, George Herman Ruth. The Giants have played only 91 games, while Babe's No. 31 did not come until the Yankees' 94th game the year he hit 60.

Dutch Leonard, the old knuckleball expert of the Phillies, held the Chicago Cubs to five hits and blanked them, 3 to 0.

THE LEAD of the idle Yankees in the American League race was increased to 12 full games when the second-place Boston Red Sox lost their third straight game to Cleveland, 5 to 4. Homers by Joe Gordon and Lou Boudreau gave the Indians all their runs.

Philadelphia's improving Athletics, who still have an excellent chance to finish second in the junior circuit, downed the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 2.

Washington beat the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 1, in a night game. Mickey Haefner, who racked up his third straight win, has given up only two runs in his last three games.

Other teams were idle.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 1.—General Jim Robinson is a puzzled gentleman these days.

Jim is general chairman for the second annual high school all-star game Aug. 15 at Canton, and the game's companion feature, the week-long Ohio high school football coaches association clinic beginning Aug. 11.

Now everyone has heard of the all-star game between North and South all-star teams, picked on the basis of press association All-Ohio selections.

What a lot of folks don't realize is that the grid project, gigantic promotion venture that it is, actually ranks as a secondary feature to the clinic for the coaches.

It's the latter event that has Robinson puzzled—not worried, understand, just puzzled.

Success of the game is assured with 13,000 tickets already sold and a remaining 7,000 going like the proverbial hot cakes. The clinic, too, has more than 100 coaches enrolled to date with about as many more expected to get in under the wire.

But this is what stumps Robinson.

"We've attracted coaches from all the surrounding states and quite a few others besides," Jim says plaintively. "We even have a couple of fellows coming down from Canada. But, dog-gone it, so far we have an unexpectedly light enrollment from right here in Ohio."

Robinson figures the Buckeye coaches are just a bit tardy getting enrolled. Last year's initial clinic and game at Toledo were so outstandingly successful in every way that it seems a cinch the boys will all be back for more.

Last year Frank Leahy of Notre Dame and Paul Bixler of Ohio State were the rival coaches for the all-star game and also the head pedagogues at the coaching school. This year, similar assignments fall to Ray Eliot of

REDS HOSTS TO GROVE CITY NINE

Rubber Game Of SCO Series Scheduled For 2 P. M. Sunday In Ashville

Plenty of action is expected Sunday afternoon at Ashville Community park when the Reds and Grove City clash in a South Central Ohio Baseball league contest.

Sunday's game, which starts at 2:30 p. m., is the rubber game between the two teams. Ashville started the season by trouncing Grove City, then took a shellacking when visiting Grove City.

The visitors will be out to show that win was no fluke while the Reds will be just as determined to show that their leadership of the SCO has been earned.

Manager Carl Gulick plans to start fast-baller Mark Wylie, while Grove City probably will use Chuck Graves, or another right-hander with plenty of steam. Fans should see some of the fastest throwing of the season when these two teams collide.

In other games Sunday, as the remaining members of the league struggle to get close to the Reds, Lancaster entertains Chillicothe; Jamestown goes to Jeffersonville and Washington C. H. plays at Greenfield.

FINED AGAIN
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 1.—St. Paul Manager Herman Franks, the American Association's bad boy, received his second taste of discipline in as many days today. This time he was fined $25 and suspended three days for using abusive language and "charging" umpire John Stevens on July 28.

PARK RANGERS BEAT ALL STARS

Container Wins By Forfeit From Blue Ribbon Then Loses To Pickup 9

Container Corporation advanced to the second round of the winners' bracket of the Night Softball league tournament Thursday night as the result of a forfeit win over Blue Ribbon.

A pickup team then was organized and defeated Container 7-6. P. T. Smith and Redman formed the winning battery while Ramey and Marshall worked for Container. Smith struck out five of the first six men to face him.

IN THE preliminary contest Park Rangers defeated All Stars in a game between teams from the Summer recreation program at the park. Rangers, champions of the playground league, won 7-2 from a team chosen from other entries in the league.

Roger Bennington was the winning pitcher. Jerry Pritchard was his catcher. Ted Davis, Curt Bradley and Ted Mogan pitched for the All Stars with Jerry Rooney catching.

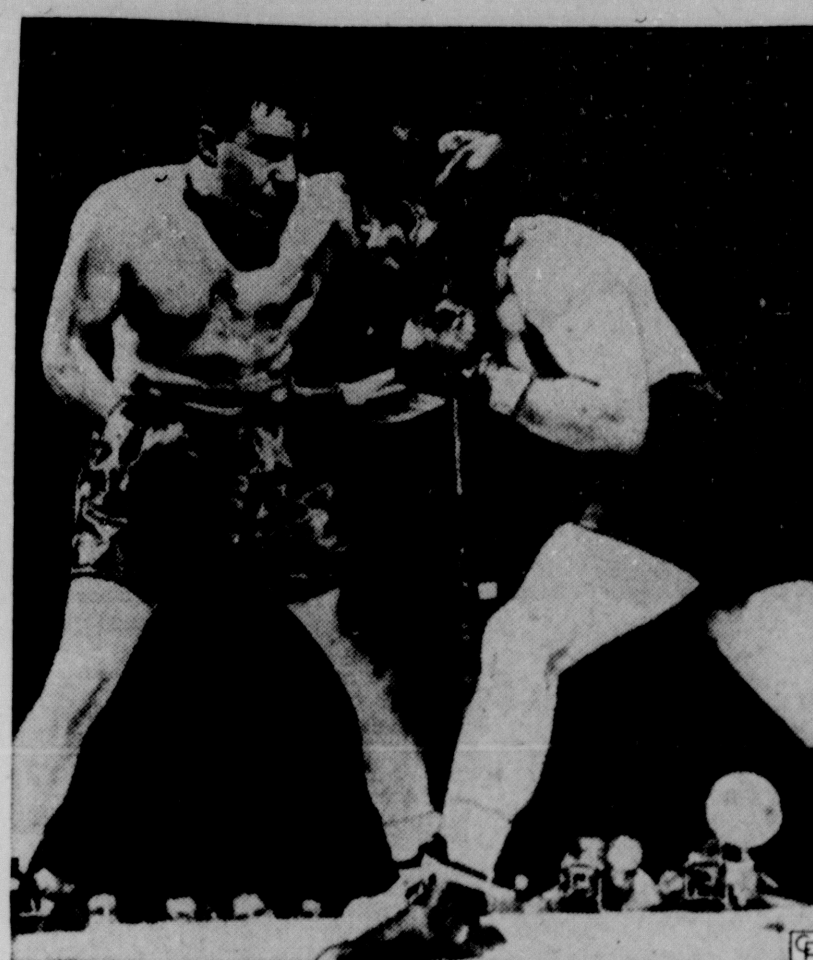

The Community band played a concert in the shelter house, then moved to the ball field and played between innings.

BRAMHAM HONORED
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 1.—National Association President George M. Trautman announced today that he will dedicate a plaque to his predecessor, the late Judge William G. Bramham, at baseball's Cooperstown, N. Y., hall of fame next Friday. Bramham who died at his Durham, N. C., home July 8, will be the first minor league executive to be honored at the famous diamond shrine.

COLUMBUS KEEPS WINNING STREAK OVER MILWAUKEE

The American Association leaders, plagued by upset tendencies on the part of the trailing members, reverted to form today.

First place Kansas City led the resurgent pace-setters by pinning back Toledo's ears, 12 to 7. Although the Mud Hens outthrew the Blues by a 16-to-10 margin, Steve Souchock's bases-full homerun in the third was the telling blow for the blues.

Louisville also returned to winning form, staying three games behind the leader with a 9-to-4 decision over Minneapolis. The Colonels scored five times in a ninth-inning uprising to break a deadlock.

The losing Millers had four homers, Bama Ray getting two and Augie Bergamo and Johnny Maguire one apiece. Chapman had one for Louisville.

The Columbus Red Birds, battling for a spot in the first division, took their fourth straight from Milwaukee, 8 to 5. Jerry Staley went the route for the Birds although found for 11 hits.

Again the homerun bats were booming, Bill Conroy getting two and Mike Natisin one for the Red Birds while Heinz Becker of Milwaukee also delivered a roundtripper.

St. Paul swamped Indianapolis, 13 to 3, with John Gabbard allowing nine hits while his mates were slugging out 15.

BIS HERD RECEIVES HIGH SCORE FOR HOLSTEIN TYPE

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., Aug. 1.—Boys Industrial School, Lancaster, Ohio, has recently had an additional number of animals in its herd inspected and classified for type. The Holstein-Friesian Association of America announces. The inspection was conducted by Clair I. Miller, Medina, Ohio, one of the 11 officials appointed by the Association to do this work in the United States.

Among the animals classified in this herd, five were designated "good plus"—the third highest score an animal can receive. This is the 4th time this herd has been classified for type. The type classification, combined with a production testing program, is used as a means of proving sires and locating outstanding blood cow families in an owner's herd.

BITING THE HAND

CZECHOSLOVAKIA has felt no particular gratitude for aid given it by UNRRA, because they believe it was financed by wealthy capitalist interests, says George Weller, writing from Prague. The fact that America's contribution comes from the labor of her people and the resources of her land has never been pointed out to its beneficiaries, says this writer.

This condition is laid to the fact that there are no individually owned newspapers in Czechoslovakia and the press is Communist-controlled. Soviet forces are molding thought there into forms inimical to Western philosophy. A strong campaign is now under way to prove that the United States is planning a new war with a revived Germany as her ally. The Soviet powers seem to find this twisting of facts and perversion of the truth necessary since the inception of the plan to make Germany self-reliant and productive.

Czechoslovakia has always been friendly to the United States. A large number of her people have come to this country and have become valuable citizens, loyal to their adopted land. It seems a pity that a friend should be changed to a blind, uncomprehending enemy by an unscrupulous outside influence. There is a field here for counter-propaganda of a constructive nature.

SCHOOL AGAINST BUST

ROGER W. BABSON, who predicted the last depression with such accuracy that he feels equipped to prepare for the next, is founding another of his schools of economics in Kansas.

This institution will be called by the forward-looking title of Utopia College, and will provide courses in economic trends, business cycles, investments, and real estate. Such instruction, according to Babson, will provide preparation for the next depression, and might even prevent one. The school is open to college graduates and non-graduates over 30 years of age.

If knowledge of their origins can prevent depressions, such a school should be crowded. Knowledge inevitably precedes prevention in any line, but the right people have to have the knowledge. The man upon whom the economic health of the country depends are probably too busy to go to school, but perhaps a little leaven can help to leaven the whole lump.

One of the finest things in recent American history is the way North and South America are beginning to learn to get along together. And if this continues, our western world may develop into just one big, fine, universal America of many nations but with close bonds of friendship and mutual interest.

Many Americans are scared about Russia, but Russia is still more scared about the U. S. A.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 — The "resignation" of Ben Cohen was hardly that. The departure of the old Roosevelt brain trust from his position as counselor of the state department was given out to the public somewhat enigmatically, as if anyone were permitted to attach his own interpretation with no flights of imagination barred. In fact, in one paper I read it on the society page although it was not represented as a social note, but as a small news item which apparently did not fit any place else.

Nearly all the authentic inside stories agree on one explanation for the "resignation", namely this:

Cohen made a speech on the west coast saying Europe should get $5 to $6 billions more a year from us for 3 to 4 years. This scared the decimal points out of the treasury people, including Treasury Secretary Snyder, who knows Mr. Truman better than Cohen. But it may have been an even greater surprise to the Europeans because a few weeks later all London anonymously asked for was $3 billions a year for 3 years, or rather that was the first figure to come out of their anonymous "experts examining requirements of the continent in the light of the Marshall proposal."

The newsmen here say privately Cohen may not have obtained an even break in justice on his speech. They looked it up and all he said was that the experts (another anonymous set) who had looked into the situation had said that Europe needed the $15 billion $24 billion American money he mentioned, on top of the $19.5 billion which we already have appropriated. Thus Cohen had some anonymous experts who said Europe needed much more of our money than the London anonymous experts (quoted in a front page dispatch to the New York Times.)

Whoever Cohen's anonymous experts were they were not official as far as the White House is concerned; or the treasury, where an idea has been expressed that the amount of "more money" needed in addition to the $19.5 billion we have already appropriated would be zero, if Europe adopted the Marshall plan of self-help economically and politically.

But do not deduce from this set of inner circumstances that Cohen just became angry and quit. His resignation is supposed to have been on President Truman's desk since Jimmy Byrnes resigned as state secretary. Cohen was a Byrnes man. He had aided the former secretary with economic advice when Byrnes earlier had been national stabilizer. An insider, authoritative on this subject, has suggested Mr. Truman himself took up the resignation at this time in a polite way.

The announcement of the resignation was made after Marshall had been called to the White House by Mr. Truman. The natural implication that Marshall had something to do with the resignation directly may not be entirely warranted. Marshall was consulted about a successor mostly, and he selected his own man to be his state department counselor in Cohen's place. Marshall chose Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen, who has been functioning as counselor for a long time on the primary foreign policy, namely Russia. In fact, most state authorities agree Bohlen has been the real working level authority behind the development of the Russian and American policies.

The Russians were said (at the time the change was made,) to be all set to circulate in this country a story that some relatives of Bohlen's at some time was in the

"The Authority on Authorities"

HOW BIG A TEN-SPOT IS

A LOWLY ten-spot can be a great big card in some hands. Failure to hold it, in a suit with higher honors, can alter entirely the correct way to play the combination to favor getting the best possible results. Countless players disregard the fact, when leading a queen or jack toward an ace or king, when instead they should lead a small card, sticking in one of the intermediate honors only if the first opponent to play puts on a low one. If that defender comes in with the missing honor, the declarer then manages to save one of his intermediates.

Three quick diamond tricks put South into a position which necessitated his cleaning up the rest of them. That appeared an impossibility unless three finesses would work—against which the odds were overwhelming. West had to hold the heart K and East the two black kings. But anyway, there was nothing to do but try.

East's return to the fourth trick was the club 4, so that South was instantly up against one of his finessing situations. He stuck in the Q and it held. So far so good. Next he decided to reach dummy via the heart finesse. He led the J, West covered with the K and the A won. Now he could see that he was home if the spade finesse would work.

But right there he went wrong. He led the spade J from dummy. When the K forced the A, his contract was cooked. There was now no earthly way to prevent the 10 from winning the third spade trick, as three higher honors, the J, K and A, had been used up on one trick.

To protect himself, South should have provided for the very situation that happened to exist. Because he lacked the 10, he should have led low from the dummy, prepared to play the Q if East played low, the A if he played the K. Notice that the heart suit was an entirely different proposition because, in addition to the A, Q and J, South had the 10. In that suit he could afford to risk squandering the J.

DIET AND HEALTH

Accidental Swallowing Of Nails, Needles, and the Like

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

INDIGESTIBLE objects such as pins or coins are frequently swallowed accidentally. Sometimes in military life the swallowing of such things is deliberate on the part of those who wish to be relieved of some unpleasant duty.

Dr. Geoffrey St. J. Hallett, of England, in making a study of a number of these cases, discovered that a surprising assortment of such objects will pass through the stomach and bowel without doing any damage. These include such things as nails, pieces of glass, spoon handles, pieces of wire, brass knuckles, broken razor-blades, and even needles.

Time Required

It may require from 48 hours to 12 days for such objects to pass through the intestines.

In only one instance among 19 patients who had swallowed such objects, did an object perforate or stick through the bowel. To prevent such perforations, it may be helpful if perforation of the bowel or stomach occurs.

Thus, if some object is swallowed, it is advisable for the patient to use a normal diet and to have X-rays taken every two or three days to determine just what is occurring. Then a physician can decide whether or not operation for the removal of the object is necessary.

place in the bowel for from seven to eight days. The same is true if the objects are retained in the stomach.

Giving Injection

Sometimes it may be helpful, if the object is retained in the stomach, to give an injection of morphine and hyoscine. This tends to relax the muscle between the stomach and bowel and to allow the object to pass into the intestine.

So long as the object continues to move through the intestine, even slowly, there is no need to have an operation performed. Of course, repeated X-ray examination is necessary to show where the object is located and whether or not it is moving through the intestines.

Sharp Object

A sharp, pointed needle or a similar object which is unlikely to pass through the intestine without causing difficulty, is better removed from the stomach by surgery, soon after it has been swallowed. Operation must be carried out immediately if perforation of the bowel or stomach occurs.

Thus, if some object is swallowed, it is advisable for the patient to use a normal diet and to have X-rays taken every two or three days to determine just what is occurring. Then a physician can decide whether or not operation for the removal of the object is necessary.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

HENRIETTA got up and moved toward the door and Poirot said: "I will walk back with you, Mademoiselle."

They crossed the lane and went through the gate into the chestnut plantation.

Henrietta said: "We need not go past the pool. We can go up to the left and along the top path to the flower walk."

A track led steeply up hill toward the woods. After a while they came to a broader path at right angles across the hillside above the chestnut trees. Presently they came to a bench and Henrietta sat down. Poirot beside her.

The woods were above and behind them and below were the closely planted chestnut groves. Just in front of the seat a curving path led downward, to where just a glimmer of blue water could be seen.

Poirot watched Henrietta without speaking. Her face had relaxed, the tension had gone. It looked rounder and younger. He realized what she must have looked like as a young girl.

He said very gently at last: "Of what are you thinking, Mademoiselle?"

"Of Ainswick."

"What is Ainswick?"

"Ainswick? It's a place." Almost dreamily, she described Ainswick to him. The white, graceful house—the big magnolia—growing up it—the whole set in an amphitheater of wooded hills.

"It was your home?"

"Not really. I lived in Ireland. It was where we came, all of us, for holidays. Edward and Midge and myself. It was Lucy's home actually. It belonged to her father. After his death it came to Edward."

"Not to Sir Henry? But it is he who has the title."

"Oh, that's K. C. B.," she explained. "Henry was only a distant cousin."

"And after Edward Angkatell, to whom does it go, this Ainswick?"

"How odd. I've never really thought. If Edward doesn't marry—" She paused. A shadow passed over her face. Hercule Poirot wondered exactly what thought was passing through her mind.

"I suppose," said Henrietta slowly, "it will go to David. So that's why—"

"Why what?"

"Why Lucy asked him here. . . . David and Ainswick?" She shook her head. "They don't sit somehow."

Poirot pointed to the path in front of them.

"It is by that path, Mademoiselle, that you went down to the swimming pool yesterday?" She gave a quick shiver.

"No, by the one nearer the house. It was Edward who came this way." She turned on him suddenly. "Must we talk about it any more? I hate the swimming pool. . . . I even hate The Hollow."

"I hate the dreadful Hollow behind the little wood. Its lips in the field above are dabbled with blood-red heath."

The red-ribbed ledges drip with a silent horror of blood. And Echo there, whatever is asked her, answers 'Death.'"

Henrietta turned an astonished face on him.

"Tennyson," said Hercule Poirot, nodding his head proudly. "The poetry of your Lord Tennyson."

Henrietta was repeating. "And Echo there, whatever is asked her. . . . She went on, almost to herself. 'But, of course—I see—that's what it is—Echo!'"

"How do you mean, Echo?"

"This place—The Hollow itself!"

I almost saw it before—on Saturday when Edward and I walked up to the ridge. An echo of Ainswick. . . . And that's what we are, we Angkatells. Echoes! We're not real—not real as John was real."

She turned to Poirot. "I wish you had known him, Mr. Poirot. We're all shadows compared with John. John was really alive."

"I knew that even when he was dying, Mademoiselle."

"I know. One felt it. . . . And John is dead, and we, the echoes, are alive. . . . It's like, you know, a very bad joke. . . ."

The youth had gone from her face again. Her lips were twisted, bitter and sudden pain.

When Poirot spoke, asking a question, she was for a moment, take in what he was saying.

"I am sorry. What did you say, M. Poirot?"

"I was asking whether your aunt, Lady Angkatell, liked Dr. Christow."

"Lucy? She is a cousin, by the way, not an aunt. Yes, she liked him very much."

"And you—also a cousin?—Mr. Edward Angkatell—did he like Dr. Christow?"

"David, I think, hates all of us. He spends his time immersed in the library reading the Encyclopedia Britannica."

"Ah, a serious temperament."

"I am sorry for David. He has had a difficult home life—his mother was unbalanced—an invalid. Now his only way of protecting himself is to try to feel superior to everyone. It's all right as long as it works, but now and then it breaks down and the vulnerable David peeps through."

"Did he feel himself superior to Dr. Christow?"

"He tried to—but I don't think it came off. I suspect that John Christow was just the kind of man that David would like to be. He disliked John in consequence."

Poirot nodded his head thoughtfully.

"Yes—self-assurance, confidence, virility—all the intensive male qualities. It is interesting—very interesting."

Henrietta did not answer. Through the chestnuts, down by the pool, Hercule Poirot saw a man stooping, searching for something, or so it seemed.

He murmured, "I wonder—" "I beg your pardon?"

Poirot said, "This is one of Inspector Grange's men. He seems to be looking for something."

"Clews, I suppose. Don't policemen look for clews? Cigaret ash, footprints, burnt matches?"

Her voice held a kind of bitter mockery. Poirot answered seriously:

"Yes, they look for these things—and sometimes they find them. But the real clews, Miss Saver, are in a case like this, usually lie in the personal relationships of the people concerned."

"I don't think I understand you."

"Little things," said Poirot, his head thrown back, his eyes half closed. "Not cigarette ash, or a rubber heel mark—but a gesture, a look, an unexpected action. . . ."

Henrietta turned her head sharply to look at him. He felt her eyes, but he did not turn his head. She said:

"Are you thinking of anything in particular?"

"I was thinking of how you stepped forward and took the revolver out of Mrs. Christow's hand and then dropped it in the pool."

He felt the slight start she gave. But her voice was quite normal and calm.

"Gerda, M. Poirot, is rather a clumsy person. In the shock of the moment, and if the revolver had had another cartridge in it, she might have fired it and—hurt someone."

"But it was rather clumsy of you, was it not, to drop it into the pool?"

"Well—I had had a shock, too." She paused. "What are you suggesting, M. Poirot?"

Poirot sat up, turned his head, and spoke in a brisk matter-of-fact way:

"If there were fingerprints on that revolver, that is to say, fingerprints made before Mrs. Christow handled it, it would be interesting to know whose they were—and that we shall never know now."

Henrietta said quietly, but steadily:

"Meaning that you think they were mine. . . . You are suggesting that I shot John and then left the revolver beside him so that Gerda could come along and pick it up and be left holding the baby—that is what you are suggesting, isn't it? But surely, if I did that, you will give me credit for enough intelligence to have wiped off my own fingerprints first!"

"But surely you are intelligent enough to see, Mademoiselle, that if you had done so and if the revolver had had no fingerprints on it but Mrs. Christow's, that would have been very remarkable! For you were all shooting with that revolver the day before. Gerda Christow would hardly have wiped the revolver clean of fingerprints before using it—why should she?"

Henrietta said slowly:

"So you think I killed John?"

"When Dr. Christow was dying, he said 'Henrietta.'"

"And you think that that was an accusation? It was not."

"What was it then?"

Henrietta stretched out her foot and traced a pattern with the toe. She said in a low voice:

"Aren't you forgetting—what I told you not very long ago? I mean—the terms we were on?"

"Ah, yes—the loved you—and so, as he is dying, he says 'Henrietta.' That is very touching."

She turned blazing eyes upon him.

"Must you sneer?"

"I am not sneering. But I do not like being lied to—and that, I think, is what you are trying to do."

Henrietta said quietly:

"I have told you that I am not very truthful—but when John said 'Henrietta,' he was not accusing me of having murdered him. Can't you understand that people of my kind, who make things, are quite incapable of taking life? I don't kill people, M. Poirot. I couldn't kill anyone. That's the plain stark truth. You suspect me simply because my name was murmured by a dying man who hardly knew what he was saying."

"Dr. Christow knew perfectly what he was saying. His voice was as alive and conscious as that of a doctor doing a vital operation who says sharply and urgently, 'Nurse, the forceps, please!'"

"But—" She seemed at a loss, taken aback. Hercule Poirot went on rapidly:

"And it is not just on account of what Dr. Christow said when he was dying. I do not believe for one moment that you are capable of premeditated murder—that, no. But you might have fired that shot in a sudden moment of fierce remorse—and if so—IF so—Mademoiselle, you have the creative imagination and ability to cover your tracks."

Henrietta got up. She stood for a moment, pale and shaken, looking at him. She said with a sudden rueful smile:

"And I thought you liked me."

Hercule Poirot sighed. He said sadly:

"That is what is so unfortunate for me. I do."

Summer Activities Keep Girl Scouts Busy

Interesting Trips To Zoo and Camp Mark Program

Cincinnati and Pickaway county Girl Scouts are working on projects for the annual Ohio State Fair, where they will be well represented at the junior fair. Their work will be in competition with that of Girl Scouts from all over the state. Numerous projects are in the making and the girls are looking forward with great anticipation to the fair, according to leaders of the organization.

Included in their recent activities, troop number 10 met at Scout Headquarters and went to Scioto lodge for lunch. Following the noon day meal the girls were divided into two groups to make and lay trails. They used sticks and stones as markers. Also included among the afternoon activities was making of nutshell "flowerpots", using wildflowers as their plants. Mrs. Orin Dresbach Jr., supervised their swimming party.

Closing ceremonies, with the flag being lowered and "taps" sung, impressed the little Brownies, making them conscious of their duties and loyalty to their country and its emblem. Mrs. Sam Scothorn and Mrs. V. E. Newman aided the troop leader, Mrs. John R. Heiskell with transportation and the Scout activities.

In the Brownie group present for the outing were, Sally Clifton, Sharon Newman, Beverly Southward, Mary Ann McClure, Louise Mae Clark, Marsha Morgan, Joy McCarty, Sandra McAllister, Carol Lynn Heiskell, Penny Young, Jean Scothorn and Marilyn Evans.

Troop number 6, Ashville, in conjunction with the Boy Scouts of that community had a joint social and band concert on the lawn of the Lutheran church. An appreciative audience attended the affair. Proceeds from the concert will be used for Scout camping and other Scout activities in the county during the year. The troop is under the leadership of Mrs. Felix Dore and Mrs. Roger Hedges, Ashville.

The Columbus zoo was the scene for another outing for Girl Scout troop number 10. They made a complete tour of the zoo and had a picnic lunch. Transportation was provided by Mrs. H. E. Haacker, Mrs. H. A. Davis, Mrs. V. E. Newman and Mrs. Joe Moats.

Brownies that were on the Columbus outing included Luanna Dresbach, Dorothy Renick, Sandra McAllister, Joy McCarty, Marsha Morgan, Sally Clifton, Sharon Newman, Beverly Southward, Mary Ann McClure and Louise Mae Clark.

WEDDING ANNOUNCED

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Edith Wooten daughter of Mrs. Anna Wooten, Williamsport, and James T. Steele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Steele, Laurelville.

The Rev. W. H. Muncy officiated for the single ring ceremony on Friday, July 25 in Greensburg, Kentucky. Mr. Steele is employed at Eshelman's, Cincinnati, after serving four and a half years with the Army Air Corps during World War II. They are making their home with the bride's mother.

SOCIETY TO PICNIC

Members of the Von Bora society of Trinity Lutheran church will gather Monday at 6 p. m. in Ted Lewis park for a picnic supper. Executive committee members are in charge of all arrangements for the outing.

Christmas Party Given By W. S. C. S. Of Hedges Chapel

Members of Women's Society of Christian Service of the Hedges Chapel assembled in the church Thursday afternoon for a special program and meeting. Mrs. Martin Cromley, president, presided for a brief business session.

Mrs. J. C. Cromley, Mrs. Della Rife and Mrs. Laura Pontius gave interesting reports and listed the highlights of the W.S.C.S. meetings at the Lancaster Camp Ground. Devotional theme, "In Wisdom and in Stature" was presented by Mrs. Ray Plum and Mrs. Kermit Massie.

Mrs. Russell Hedges, leader of the Girl's Interest group, was in charge of the afternoon's program. She used the Christmas theme in carrying out her program. Gifts and toys of all descriptions were brought to the meeting by members of the society, which will later be sent as Christmas presents to a settlement house in India.

"There's a Song in the Air" was sung by girls of the Interest group. Elaine Quillian who attended the Lancaster junior camp told of camping activities. Judith Fausnaugh, Geneva Dresbach and Donna May told of their experiences at other camps. Virginia and Anna Owens sang, "The Sweetest Story", accompanied at the piano by Sara Jane Hedges.

Barbara Dern and Sara Jane Hedges, members of a 4-H club told of their recent trip through the J. W. Eshelman and Sons mill and the Container Corporation of America, Cincinnati. Elaine Quillian and Barbara Dern told of the 4-H camp in Tar Hollow. They displayed pins, headbands and earrings they had made in the Art Craft classes.

Mrs. Russell Hedges gave a review of the extension camp at Tar Hollow where 16 women from Pickaway county were enrolled for the three day Summer vacation. Sara Jane Hedges concluded the program as she played the Christmas carol, "Silent Night".

Refreshments were served from an attractive tea table, centered with a bowl of pastel ragged robins. Soft candlelight glowed from pink and blue tapers placed at either end of the table. Brightly wrapped gifts for those in India completely surrounded the decorated Christmas tree, which stood in a corner of the diningroom.

CARD CLUB MEETS

NEWS Behind the NEWS

Krupp munitions works, and to make a big add about Bohlen descending from the Von Bohlen who were "munitions barons".

No one thought enough of the story even to ask Bohlen about it, because it had nothing to do with the case. In ideology experience, Bohlen appears to have a background as possible something of a Bill Bullitt man. At any rate he went to Moscow first with Bullitt, when Bullitt was a sympathizer with Communism, not knowing much about it. After he (Bullitt) saw it in operation in Moscow, he withdrew and the book of his reconversion to normality was a best seller last year. Bohlen is a career diplomat who learned by first hand experience, being stationed variously in Moscow as first secretary as late as 1943-44, and lately on the Russian desk in the state department. He is a master of languages and one of the few top diplomats who knows Russian. He attended practically all the world conferences, and presumably met Marshall closely during them.

The Russians will have a hard time trying to deceive him, or anyone else concerning him.

Opinions expressed by the writer in the column are the views of the writer and not necessarily those of the Circleville Herald.

"Summerfield Band Concert," pretty Kay Starr has been signed for a singing engagement at the El Cortijo in Santa Barbara, Calif., beginning Aug. 15.

Beryl Davis, English importation, is finding herself busier on the air than many of her American singing cousins. She's heard regularly on the Phil Silvers Show over ABC, and she will be a guest on the same network during a special Army Air Forces Day program July 31 and she will make her third guest appearance on the Vaughn Monroe Show over CBS Saturday night, Aug. 2.

As a direct result of her two guest appearances on NBC's Platter reviewers predict that one of the biggest jukebox hits of the season when it is released will be Tony Martin's Victor etching of "You're Not So Easy to Forget." The CBS singing star recorded it this week.

"The Whistler," heard Wednesday over CBS, is getting a new director, James G. Connors, prominent advertising agency man.

The possessors of one of the finest private collections of nursery rhyme recordings in the country are five-year-old Candace (Candy) and two-year-old Christina (Christy) Monroe. Their father is Maestro Vaughn Monroe who has wrapped his deep baritone voice around virtually every nursery rhyme ever written and placed them on wax for his daughters. Naturally, their father is their favorite recording artist. Monroe's recording company is now dickering with the singing maestro to do a series of records for release to the baby carriage trade.

mer replacement. "Arthur's Place" over CBS will no longer use guest stars. Passenger train radios may be installed in nation's streamliners following pattern set up Santa Fe lines. Oscar Levant slated to be one of the permanent fixtures on the new NBC Al Jolson show this fall.

Red Foley's Cumberland Valley Boys have a new number. He is Jerry Byrd, who guest starred recently on the NBC "Grand Ole Opry," and who made such a hit with his hot steel-guitar playing that Foley has added him to his band heard on the show each Saturday.

Leora Thatcher, who frequently appears in roles on "Perry Mason" over CBS, has been in radio since 1932 when she made her start over Station KSL in Salt Lake City. Besides her radio work, she has appeared in many Broadway productions, including the role of "Ada" in the New York "Tobacco Road" company.

One-Minute Test

- Who was the author of the lines, "You're a better man than I am, Gunga Din"?
- Who wrote the lines, "Water, water everywhere. Nor any drop to drink"?
- Who was the author of the lines, "Tis better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all"?

Words of Wisdom

Tact is one of the first mental virtues, the absence of which is often fatal to the best of talents; it supplies the place of many talents.—Simms.

Hints on Etiquette

Refreshments at card tables are usually candy and nuts, placed on the tables in little dishes and kept replenished throughout the evening. Cold (or hot) beverages may be served between rounds, and if smoking is in order, cigars are placed on each table by the hostess, with matches.

Today's Horoscope

August's birthstone is the sardonyx, its flower is the gladioli, and colors are orange and red. The person whose birthday falls on Aug. 1 has intuitive powers, is somewhat fastidious in tastes, and is bold, even to the point of foolhardiness. If this is your anniversary, you have perseverance and through it overcome many difficulties. You are fond of outdoor sports and travel. You are gentle, affectionate, fond of children, and love your home and family. The day is adverse. Things are likely to boomerang or have unfavorable reactions. Act with caution and carefully guard personal affairs. In your next year matrimonial love or family difficulties, some through ill-health, may beset you. Refuse unnecessary risks in all things, albeit success from a secret source is vouchsafed you. Born on this date a child will not be robust and health will need extra care. Family troubles will also retard progress, but secret aid will be forthcoming.

Interest Keen In Biggest County Fair

Record Lists Of Entries Made For Big Event On September 10, 11, 12, 13

Pickaway county's 1947 fair will be the biggest ever presented.

Those are the words of members of the fair board of directors and a peek at proofs of the official premium list backs up this statement.

Full programs for all four days of the fair, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 10, 11, 12 and 13, are already assured.

TOM HARMAN, fair manager, said that interest in all types of events has been very keen. Each group is vying with others trying to make an outstanding showing.

More buildings will house the enlarged exhibits this year. Efforts are being made to get most of them now under construction ready for the opening day of the big event.

Features of the 1947 show include three days of racing, Thursday, Friday and Saturday; horse pulling contests, horse show, junior fair day, western horse show, flower show and many, many more events.

BOYS AND girls are expected to show more of their work than in last year's fair. New clubs have been added this year and the new members are scheduled to swell the entry lists to new records. Dairy and beef cattle shows—open to the world—will attract some of the finest cattle ever shown here. These events are in addition to the livestock shown by the 4-H club members.

Larger prizes in various classes of the different events will make for a bigger and better show.

SOLONS PREPARE TO SAIL DESPITE MRS. HARDESTY WINS PRIZE IN 'NO WIVES' RULE PURINA CONTEST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—A "no wives" rule was clamped down today on the special House committee which will investigate European economic needs and members learned they were in for a grueling trip.

One of the congressmen who will make the trip Aug. 21 for a five weeks' stay in Europe revealed that Rep. Herter (R) Mass., in charge of the foreign tour, "laid down the law right away."

He told reporters: "Herter right away said no wives were to be taken on the trip, as is customary. Everybody is to meet in New York the day before we sail on the Queen Mary and be briefed by the state department on what it thinks the European nations need."

"Herter has already reserved the conference room on the Queen Mary and we will meet there daily and discuss our itinerary and plans."

"After we get to London, we get right to work. First we'll visit the German Ruhr, then divide into subcommittees and fan out over the continent."

SPEED COUNTS AT Milking Time

Washing with hot water (130°F) not only promotes sanitation but stimulates the let-down action.

Faster milking, according to dairy tests, helps increase milk production. The gentle, thorough action of McCormick-Deering Milkers helps your cows let down their milk faster—and give more milk. McCormick-Deering Milkers also decrease the amount of strappings and help maintain healthy udders. Take good care of your milker. Ask us for suggestions on keeping it operating efficiently.

Foremilking reduces bacteria count and is a check on the health and condition of the udder. A uniform routine for time and order of milking is important.

Test cups on McCormick-Deering Milkers can be put in place quickly and the cow milked out quickly (3 or 4 minutes). Strip at once after removing the milker unit.
